

PLAN TO START MANDAMUS PROCEEDINGS ON MONDAY IN THE CIRCUIT COURT

LATEST PLAN OF THE RECALL
ELEMENT WAS LEARNED
THIS AFTERNOON FROM ONE IN AUTHORITY.

OBJECTIONS ARE MADE

Many Who Favored the Plan at First
Now Said to Be Objecting to the Latest Move—New Affidavit
Filed With City Clerk.

From an authoritative source very close to those in charge of the recall movement, it was learned that it is proposed to ask for a mandamus, on next Monday morning, while Judge Grimm is in the city on his way to open court in Monroe.

It was also learned from the same source that this action will not meet with favor at the hands of many who were formerly enthusiastic to have a recall election, and who were prominently identified with the movement. These men are now convinced that nothing is to be gained by this squabble and that the whole movement is now nothing more than a chase for office.

They feel that the net result will be nothing but ill-feeling, and dissension, which may continue for years, and that it would be much better to abandon the scheme and all go together and boost for Janesville rather than tear it to pieces.

This application, it is stated, will be made between nine and ten o'clock Monday morning at the Court House.

HAVE TO BREAK ICE FOR DIVER TO WORK ON THE COFFER DAM

Charles Gunderson Resumes Operations at Railroad Bridge in Spite of Cold Weather.

Charles Gunderson, diver employed in laying the sheeting of the coffer dam at the railroad bridge, continued work today despite the fact that the sudden turn of weather froze the river. His work this morning was to remove the rocks and timbers of the old crib and to drive the sheeting in the bed of the frozen river.

The river was frozen over this morning and while it had not gained any thickness, workmen had to break the ice that gathered around the coffer dam. Only a small force of men were employed today and the majority of them left for their homes for Easter in different cities.

Among dangerous occupations, that of a diver ranks with the most hazardous. Mr. Gunderson has been engaged in this occupation for over sixteen years and has met many perils while under water. He has worked in many parts of the country and has done many forms of work.

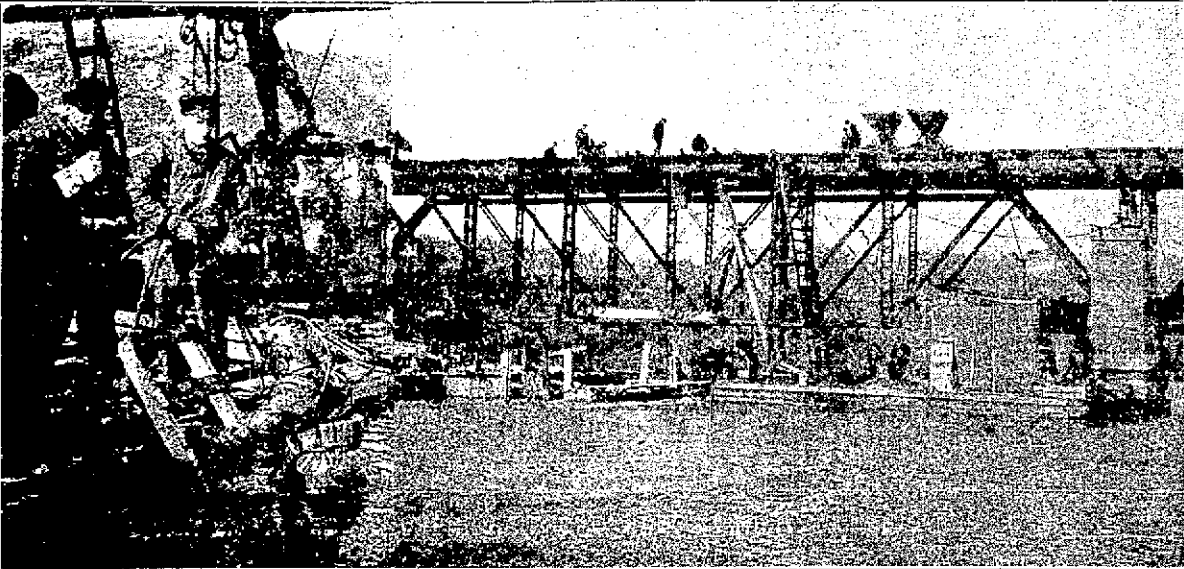

His home is in Chicago where he was employed in the building of the big cribs in Lake Michigan.

Last summer he was employed at Huron where a large dam had to be rebuilt. His most hazardous work was at Lake Superior, where he and other divers were engaged in raising a large freight steamer. The boat had sunk in ninety feet of water which caused a pressure so great that the divers were forced to return to the surface after short intervals of work. At that depth of water the pressure has fatal effects if the diver stays down too long as the circulation of the blood is liable to be stopped.

It was here that Mr. Gunderson had his most narrow escape for the swift under current swept him under the sunken ship and cut off all signaling. He stated that he never expected to come out of that experience alive but was pulled to safety after crawling out from under the ship on his hands and knees.

Mr. Gunderson has also worked for the Rockford Electric Company where he was employed for some time in dam building. He also worked at Kankakee. At this city a small child fell in, while watching the divers at work on the dam, and Mr. Gunderson had the unpleasant duty of bringing the dead body to the surface.

His work here will continue for some time as there is one more coffer dam to be built up and the condition of the cribs is unknown. The river at this point is about seventeen feet deep and the current very swift. Be-

JOINT CONFERENCES ON IMPORTANT BILLS

Senate and Assembly Committees Will Consider Taxation, Corporation, and Election Measures.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 22.—The feature of next week's committee hearings before the legislature will be the joint conferences of the committees of both houses upon important bills. On Tuesday committees of both houses will hold joint hearings upon all the fire insurance bills which have been introduced into the legislature. On the same day a joint hearing will be held in the senate parlor before the assembly committee on taxation and the senate committee on finance upon all income tax bills.

On Wednesday the joint committee on Finance and the assembly committee on Transportation will hear arguments on the Howe bill providing for an advance system for the taxation of telephone companies. On the evening of that day there will be a general discussion in the assembly chamber of the subject of woman's suffrage.

On Thursday several committees of the assembly will meet with the corporations committee of the senate to consider all of the stock and bond bills which have been introduced in both houses. Two classes of bills are pending before these committees. There are a number of bills to amend the present stock and bond law. Several bills, however, have been introduced in both the senate and assembly to regulate the sale of fictitious stock. These measures are more popularly known as "blue sky laws." One of the most interesting readings at this session of the legislature will be held in the assembly chamber on Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock upon the university live mile dry zone bill. This measure was introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman A. E. Frederick of Monroe county.

On Wednesday the committee on Education will consider bills introduced by Assemblymen Shap and Rowe with reference to the education of children with defective vision. On the same day the assembly committee on elections will consider the Kneen bill for the direct election of United States senators. His bill is a direct copy of the Oregon law. The Milwaukee civil court bill will be given a hearing Wednesday afternoon before the assembly committee on judiciary. This measure is authored by Assemblyman Jennings. It is a bill strengthening the present weights and measures law will be given a hearing Tuesday afternoon by the committee on public welfare.

HOSTILE CONDITIONS DELAY ALL TRAFFIC

Railroad Communications With Interior of Mexico Are at a Standstill.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 22.—As railroad communication between Laredo, Tex., and the interior of Mexico is at a standstill the consul at Monterey today reported that all United States mail for Mexico should be sent by way of Brownsville, Texas, and Matamoros, Mexico. There is one train daily between the latter city and Monterey.

General Obregón still threatens Cananea with several hundred volunteers and Yaqui Indians. General Diaz is reported to have arrested the governor of Sinaloa and the prefect of Mazatlan.

Start Movement.
Naco, March 22.—Combined state troops at noon today began moving in against Naco, Sonora. Following the president of last week General Ojeda at once left the Mexican border town and set out to meet the enemy. His ranks are depleted by desertions and the Huerta commander has no more than 350 men, while four groups of the state troops aggregate 1,600 men.

TWO STEAMERS COLLIDE; REVENUE CUTTER TO RESCUE

Vineyard Haven, Mass., March 22.—The revenue cutter Massac left Wood's Hole today to assist the steamers "City of Macon" and "James S. Whitney" which were in collision in a heavy fog in Vineyard Sound last night. The steamers anchored after the accident. No one was injured.

STEAMER RESCUES SEVEN MEN WHO WERE SHIPWRECKED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Key West, Fla., Mar. 22.—The British steamer Reliance off Sand Key last night reported having picked up seven men comprising the officers and crew of the Dutch schooner Ventura from St. Martin which had been abandoned in latitude 22 north longitude 85 west. The pilot boat Nonpareil has gone in search of the venture.

FRENCH BARK MEETS DISASTER IN STORM

Boat is Shattered But Crew is Saved Through Assistance of Trawler Amer.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Grimsby, Eng., March 22.—The French bark Marie from San Francisco to Hull, at the end of her long voyage, today met with disaster and destruction here. Her captain and crew of twenty-four men were saved by the trawler Amer.

The Marie was ashore before daybreak at Haisborough in the North sea during a blizzard. It was quickly crowded to pieces by a terrific wind. The crew was in a desperate plight and had lost hope when the Amer came up, left a life-boat and took off the crew, making several perilous trips. The captain and mate of the Marie refused to leave their ship until every man had been saved.

The Amer's life-boat was too much shattered by the waves to return for them and the crew of the French bark dived from the Amer with a life-line and swam to the wreck. He and the captain and mate were ultimately dragged through the sea to the rescuing vessel.

EIGHT BOYS ESCAPE FROM STATE SCHOOL

Youths Make Use of Bed-sheet Rope to Escape from Minnesota Reformatory School.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Red Wing, Minn., March 22.—Officers of the state training school today are searching for eight boys who effected their escape this morning by the use of two dozen bed-sheets. The boys tied the sheets together, making a strong rope, which they threw from a window on the third floor of the reformatory and down the rope they slid, one at a time, and disappeared in the timber. So carefully had they planned their escape that the guard on the third floor did not learn of their departure until informed by one lad who remained behind. Officers of the school expect to find most of the boys at their homes.

Found in Box Car.
Winona, Minn., March 22.—Six of the eight boys who escaped from the state training school at Red Wing, early this morning, were found by the police here in a box car on an east-bound Milwaukee and St. Paul freight train.

They were thinly clad and were suffering severely from the cold. They will probably be returned to Red Wing today.

INCOME TAX STUDIED BY SUB-COMMITTEE

Details to Proposed Taxation System Are Being Considered by Congressmen.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 22.—Representatives Underwood, Hull, Peters and Palmer met today as a sub-committee to study the administration of the provision of the new tax bill and the income tax plan. While members of the democratic majority of the ways and means committee differ on what the income tax should be, it is indicated they will agree on a tax of from one to one and one-half per cent on incomes upwards of five thousand dollars a year and might agree to make the tax applicable to incomes as low as $3,500.

Chairman Underwood and his colleagues have been studying the British system where the lowest charge is a fraction over one per cent.

TO TEST THE RIGHT OF EMINENT DOMAIN

Where Government Land is Affected, By A Suit Ordered By Colorado House.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Denver, Colo., March 22.—The Colorado house today passed a bill instructing the state land and board to institute a suit in the courts to test the state's right to eminent domain where government land is affected.

Were You Among the Fortunate Purchasers?

(By J. P. Fallon.)

Yesterday a local merchant published a very important announcement in THE GAZETTE, which enabled a number of people to effect a great saving.

Were you among the fortunate? This splendid opportunity was presented to all the readers of THE GAZETTE, but only those who have formed the habit of reading the advertisements closely and constantly every day were able to grasp it.

There are similar opportunities presented in THE GAZETTE'S advertising columns every day. Today it may be a special sale of furniture. Tomorrow it may be an offering of Easter Suits. Every day new things are featured. Merchants tell you their most important store news.

So you see it pays to read THE GAZETTE continuously. By doing so you will always be well informed regarding the new arrivals, the latest and most fashionable merchandise, and never miss an opportunity to save money.

ART DEALERS SWARM TO MORGAN'S HOTEL

Manicure Financier Now at Rome is Besieged by All Sorts of Antiquarians.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, March 22.—The Daily Mail's Rome correspondent says: "The hotel where J. Pierpont Morgan is staying may be compared to a closely besieged fortress. There is not an art dealer or antiquarian in Rome who is not making desperate efforts to approach the financier with an offer for some 'extraordinary bargains.'"

"All sorts of odds and ends of valueless old pictures, china, lace and the like are uncared for by drawers and cupboards by private persons who firmly believe that they can call on Morgan, dispose of their goods and return home with a bundle of bank notes."

"In the meantime the subject of so many hopes keeps mostly to his room. Dyspepsia and gastro-intestinal trouble cause him acute discomfort, but his condition is not such as to give rise to the slightest apprehension."

TWO CHINESE TO DIE FOR MURDER IN TONG WAR

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, March 22.—Yee Dock and Eng Hing, two members of the Chinese Hip Sing Tong, are under sentence to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing next Monday. The two were convicted of murder in connection with the tong war that raged in Chinatown here a year ago. Their conviction and sentence to death were caused for satisfaction on the part of the New York police, who have always found it a most difficult matter to secure convictions in such cases.

The principal witnesses against Yee Dock and Eng Hing were two Philadelphia girls, who drifted into Chinatown.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT MAKES HIS DEPARTURE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Halifax, N. S., March 22.—The Duke of Connaught, Governor General of Canada, and his party arrived in Halifax today to take passage on the steamship Empress of Britain sailing for England. His Royal Highness declined to discuss the matter of his rumored retirement from the governor generalship, though the general impression is that he expects to return to his post at Ottawa early in the summer. The Duchess of Connaught and the Princess Patricia are accompanying the Duke to England. Owing to the poor health of the Duchess neither she nor her daughter will return to Canada.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—Alumni of the agricultural college of the University of Minnesota are assembling to take part in the coming week's celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the institution. The celebration will be held in connection with the commencement week exercises. The program will be ushered in tomorrow with the baccalaureate sermon by Henry Wallace of Des Moines. Other leading speakers of the week will be President George H. Vincent of the university and the two former presidents, William W. Folwell and Cyrus Northrup.

MAN CHARGED WITH ARSON PLEADS GUILTY OF CRIME

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Appleton, Mar. 22.—Paul Shirley, brother of Gordon T. Shirley who yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of arson was also arrested in Milwaukee. He pleaded guilty in municipal court here this morning. His case will be disposed of March 23.

PROPOSE ABOLITION OF VOTING MACHINES

Assemblyman Mahon Introduces Measure Which Finds Numerous Supporters.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 22.—A complete abolition of voting machines in the state of Wisconsin is proposed in a new bill which has been introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman Thomas J. Mahon of Eland Junction. This bill simply repeals all of the laws at present on the statute books relating to voting machines. The committee on Elections of the Assembly has another bill before it for consideration which was introduced by Assemblyman Gannon of Superior, which provides that the question of using voting machines shall be left to a vote of the people. Mr. Mahon claims that in the City of Milwaukee alone the Republican party lost upwards of 10,000 votes last fall as the result of the use of the voting machine as prescribed under a ruling of the Attorney General. A large amount of testimony against voting machines has already been gathered by the Elections committee. The machines are in use in Milwaukee, Madison, Superior, and many of the other large cities of the state.

Assemblyman Bowe of Mellen, has introduced the Torrens Land-Title bill, which comes up regularly at each session of the legislature. The bill is generally introduced by some Assemblyman from northern Wisconsin. Assemblyman Bowe claims that such a measure would provide a uniform land-title for the state. The measure has always been opposed by the abstract companies of the state.

A plan to give the village, city or town the license fees received from hawkers and peddlers is proposed in a new bill which has been introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman Scanlon of Milwaukee. At the present time these fees are collected by the state and are turned into the state treasury. The Scanlon bill provides that 75 per cent of the fees collected shall be retained in the treasury of the city, village or town where the fees are paid and only 25 per cent shall be turned over to the state. The present law relating to peddlers is amended in several other minor respects so as to favor the locality rather than the state.

FRENCH TROOPS ARE DEFEATED BY ARABS

Many Men Lose Lives in Fight on Desert, According to a Paris Dispatch.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, March 22.—Dispatches today told of the virtual annihilation of a small column of French troops by Arabs in the Adrar region of the western Sahara.

A body of 1,000 of the intractable Berber tribe of the Acaemid swooped down and surrounded the French detachment which was marching through the shifting sands of the desert about three days' journey from Timbuctu, the French military station.

After a fight lasting all day the French troops were overcome. Their commander, Lieutenant Martin, and four sergeants, were killed together with fifty-three native troops. A few troopers escaped on pack horses and brought the news to headquarters. They declared that the Arabs suffered tremendous losses before the annihilation of the French troops was effected.

SPRING STORM DOES DAMAGE TO WIRES

Severe Effects of Storm Cripples Communication Over Telegraph and Telephone.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, March 22.—So severe were the effects of the sleet storm yesterday on telegraph and telephone wires that it will be several weeks before the damage has been repaired completely. There was some improvement today, but at best telegraphic service was feeble and liable to interruption.

Some curious routing of messages were made necessary by the prostration of the wires. It is only eighty-five miles from Chicago to Milwaukee, but press telegrams from Chicago went from Chicago to Pittsburgh and around from a leased wire, through Columbus, Ohio, Cincinnati, Omaha, Kansas City and Minneapolis to Milwaukee. The Associated Press leased wire to Peoria was routed via Pitts-burgh and St. Louis.

DECLINES A WRIT OF ERROR TO ALLEN

Chief Justice White Denies A Delay in Exemption of Virginia Outlaw.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, March 22.—Chief Justice White today declined to grant a writ of error to have the supreme court review the death sentence imposed upon Claude Allen for his part in the Hillsville court house murders, but granted Allen's attorneys the mission to lay their request before any other justice of the court. Claude and his father are under sentence to die March 28.

AUSTRIA IS PREPARED

Continues in Warlike Attitude Toward Montenegro and Sends Strongly Worded Ultimatum.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Adrianoople, March 22.—By wireless to Constantinople.—Shukri Pasha, the commander of this fortress and his troops are determined to continue the defense they have now carried on for five months and all reports as to offers made by them to surrender may be dismissed as pure fiction.

Only starvation force can capture the garrison. Food is still regularly distributed among the populace by the military authorities and there are considerable supplies.

Assaults Futile.
Perfect order prevails within the city. The Bulgarian besiegers are making no progress and their occasional bombardment has done no harm to the defending force.

Discord is said to prevail among the allied armies. The Serbians brought up to assist the Bulgarians in the siege remain idle in their lines and are not participating in any of the active campaign.

Refuses Are Safe.
The report from Sofia that Shukri Pasha had ordered the Greeks and Armenians bishops to be hanged because they had drawn attention to the alleged miseries of the population is groundless. It has aroused much indignation here, the two prelates themselves being most energetic in protesting against the story. They extol the courtesy of the commander, praising his solicitude for his soldiers for the naval and military population of the city.

Austria Preparing

Berlin, March 22.—The German foreign office learned today that armed operations against Montenegro by the Austrians may be expected soon. An Austrian squadron is now maneuvering on the Adriatic and Albanian coasts.

The official of the German foreign office state that Austria will send one further note to Montenegro so as to exhaust the possibilities of diplomacy, before the character of the war ship changes from a demonstration into an offensive action.

It is understood here that Russia has counseled the Montenegrans to yield.

Sends an Ultimatum

Vienna, March 22.—The Austro-Hungarian government today addressed a strongly worded note to Montenegro which is in the nature of an ultimatum.

London, March 22.—The news in the Balkans today led to the instant recall from their Easter vacation of the ambassadors in London of the European powers. They met in conference this afternoon to discuss the situation.

Size German Boat

Bremen, Germany, March 22.—A Greek warship today seized the German steamer Immingard off the island of Lemnos in the Aegean Sea. She sailed from Barry, Wales, March 6th for Genoa. No details of the reason for her capture are given in the telegram received by the owners.

JOINT CONFERENCE REGARDS GAME LAWS

Committees of Wisconsin and Minnesota Legislatures Pass on Important Matters at La Crosse.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
La Crosse, Wis., Mar. 22.—At the first session of the joint committee of the Wisconsin and Minnesota legislatures, which is being held on a unit-fish and game law, for the two states in so far as they are affected by the Mississippi and upper rivers and Lake Hennepin and St. Croix formed an agreement to recommend that the shooting season on all small game, except quail, open in both states on September 7th. This is now the opening date in Minnesota while in Wisconsin it is September 1st.

Other points which were discussed and practically agreed upon but will not be determined until they meet in executive session are as follows:

Abolishment of all shooting in the spring to conform with the Wisconsin law.

The shooting season, about ten days, for quail shooting in October.

The two months shooting for grouse and prairie chickens beginning from Sept. 7th to Oct. 7th.

The mooted question and one upon which there is a great difference of opinion is the proposition of the hunting and fishing association to limit the size of the net of commercial fishermen's seines to three and one half inches square. This proposed law is being vigorously opposed by leading commercial fishermen of the Western Mississippi and it is claimed that a mesh of this size would permit the escape from the net of bull heads and other small fish now classed as rough fish and permitted to be caught and sold by commercial men.

The proposed reduction of the number of ducks which may be killed by one hunter in one day from fifteen to ten with a bag limit of 45.

The meeting is being attended by sportsmen and fishermen from all along the upper rivers.

HIAWATHA WATER CO. PLANS IMPROVEMENTS

WILL ESTABLISH AN OFFICE IN THIS CITY AND ADD TO PLANT EQUIPMENT.

ERECT NEW BUILDINGS

Two-story Residence for Foreman and Bottle Shed to Be Put Up—Will Advertise Heavily.

Establishment of a Janesville office, discontinuance of the general office at Minneapolis, the erection of a two-story residence for the foreman, the addition of new machinery, and an energetic and thorough advertising campaign are among the elaborate plans of the Hiawatha Water company for the season just opening. The advertising department will be installed in the local office and to begin with the plant will employ not less than six to eight men and during the season the crew will be much larger. In addition to this the office force will consist of two or three regular employees, with as high as ten to fifteen extra setigraphers when the advertising campaign commences. A large stock of water will be placed in storage to fill city and local orders.

The company has, the past week, ordered a new combination washer and rinser operated under a 60-pounds air pressure to be used in conjunction with the sterilizing machine. They have also ordered a crowner for the half-gallon bottles of still water and a blue-printer for this bottle.

Blue-prints have just been received for a new seven-room house to be built on their property for the use of the foreman. This will be a new, modern as possible, two-story, with full basement. A large bottle shed is about to be erected adjoining the factory. Several carloads of new bottles have been ordered as well as several cars of box shooks. The boxes will be nailed together at the factory here.

Advertising of all sorts, new and novel, has been ordered, including signs, window trims, and new booklets will be issued as soon as copy is ready. The company intends to keep the plant equipped with the most modern machinery obtainable and their office will contain a thorough follow-up system to aid in the promotion of their business and their advertising.

A cement casing has been sunk about seven feet around the spring, thus excluding every possible chance of contamination and the drainage has been so arranged that any surface overflow will not discharge into the spring. A pure block lined pipe has been laid to the bottling plant at a cost exceeding $1,200 and a silver lined centrifugal pump with motor has been installed to pump the water into the cooling and supply tanks.

The building itself is built of white enameled brick, the floors are of solid cement while the side walls are of glazed tile. The entire exterior and interior are snow white and all machinery is enameled white. The floors are provided with proper sewer connections and the entire building is flushed daily with water to keep it absolutely clean.

In the cooling room is installed a Kroeschell ice machine, a carbolic anhydride machine that, by the aid of carbolic acid gas, cools the water from its natural temperature of about 45 degrees to 33 in order to secure perfect absorption of gas in carbonation. This engine is operated by a 10 h. p. motor and a glass-enameled tank on the roof acts as a storage receptacle for the cooling tank below. As the water is cooled it is carried from there to the carbonator, through block-lined pipe, and thence to the rotary filler. The entire machinery equipment is operated by individual motors, there being no counter shafts to mar the looks of the ceiling.

The sterilizer, a Ladewig's make, has a capacity of 10,000 bottles per day with a twenty minute soaking in caustic soda. As the bottles pass through the soaker they emerge into a fresh water tank to be conveyed to a hydro-pneumatic washer and rinser where, in turn, they are fed to the filler, thence to the crowner, thence to the leader and pasteurizing tank, thence to the cooler, thence to the labeler, thence to the conveying table which carries the bottles to the packers in the storage room. The entire plant is operated continuously, the bottles never stopping from the time they enter the soaker until they are tested for leakers, for clarity, then handsomely labeled and securely wrapped and packed.

A laboratory has been equipped wherein the water will be tested, almost daily, to note that the bottled product is as pure as the water at the spring. In this laboratory will also be compounded a pure ginger extract and a delicious glaze ale will be placed on the market for use in exclusive clubs, cafes and for private family consumption. This department is in charge of Mr. John Butler, a bottler and chemist of twenty-five years' experience in some of the largest bottling houses of the country.

The standard packages will be the one dozen one-half gallons, fifty quarts, one hundred pints, and one hundred splits, while a smaller case will be used for local city trade. The directors for the present season are: Thomas Peables and E. C. Disbee of Minneapolis, and John Peables of Janesville.

J. L. Culver, the new sales manager, has been on the ground for some time and will bring his family to this city early in the summer. It is the intention of the company to build up a "White Rock" business with Hiawatha water. Advertising efforts will be regular, not spasmodic, and will extend over a large area. The local field will be given no less attention than the general, for the company desires first of all to win the good will and trade of Janesville people. The water will be shipped to every state in the Union and abroad, and make Janesville known wherever it goes, doing for this city what "Chippewa Water" has done for Chippewa Falls, and "White Rock" for Waukesha. The public is at all times invited to visit the company's plant.

M. J. BRENNAN

Morton J. Brennan, the newly appointed member of the State Barbers' board, has been a resident of Janesville for the past fifteen years, owning and operating one of the largest shops in the city. For the past thirty years he has been a barber, learning his trade at his old home, Ripon, where he was born. Mr. Brennan is married and has one small son. For many years past Mr. Brennan has conducted the "Officers" barber shop at the Wisconsin state fair at Milwaukee and his one-chair establishment in the executive building has been the scene of many a political conference when the "big guns" of the political world of the state met to confer on politics. With Anton Bert of Milwaukee and Henry Clement of Green Bay, as the other two members of the state board, examinations will be held in May in La Crosse and Eau Claire, at which time dates for other examinations will also be taken up. There are thirty-six hundred licensed barbers in the state who pay annual dues and are subject to examination.

Mr. Brennan will probably be the new secretary of the board, which means the establishment of the headquarters in Janesville. His many friends in the city are most gratified at his appointment.

CLOSING CONCERT IS ON MONDAY EVENING

The Apollo Club Plan Unusual Program for Last Gathering of the Winter.

Monday night will be given the Apollo Club concert which was originally planned to have taken place on Monday night last. This concert will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Ougawa, it will consist of Japanese songs and dances. Miss Mabel Raitman of Chicago will be the accompanist.

This entertainment is so unusual and novel and so totally unlike anything that has ever been given in Janesville that it promises to be an evening of rare enjoyment. Inasmuch as this is the last Apollo Club recital to be given, this season, the directors have decided to permit any member of the Apollo Club to invite one guest to attend this recital at one-half the price charged for the usual guest ticket. This will give those who are not members of the Apollo Club an opportunity to hear one of the recitals and to judge as to the value of membership in the Club.

IDENTIFY FLOATER AS JOHN M'QUAID; MISSING TEN WEEKS

Clothing Recognized by Man Who Sold It—Disappeared Ten Weeks Ago—Brothers in Beloit.

Clothing found on the corpse taken out of the river near the foot of South Cherry street yesterday afternoon established its identity as the remains of John McQuaid, a Janesville man, who has been missing for the last ten weeks. As the corpse was being inspected at the Kimball morgue it was noticed that the suit upon it was of a brand sold only by the Ford clothing store. Richard Saxby, a salesman at that store, was at once called in and declared that he had sold the suit, shirt and necktie found on the body to John McQuaid. The features of McQuaid had been almost obliterated because of their long submersion, nor even those best acquainted with him being able to recognize them. Dr. R. W. Edger examined the corpse but found no signs of violence upon it. James McQuaid, a brother of the deceased who resides at Beloit, was notified by telephone of the discovery of the remains, and accompanied by his wife came to Janesville on an interurban car early last evening. They were not able to recognize the body, but were convinced of its identity by the cloth evidence given them. The length of the corpse, and the size of the shoes found upon it corresponded with those of the missing man. A tooth-brush and fifty cents were the only articles in the pockets.

According to Mrs. Katie Cunningham, who keeps a restaurant on North Main street, where John McQuaid boarded, he has not been seen for ten weeks. She was not alarmed at his absence, believing that he had gone to the home of his brother in Beloit, where he sometimes went when he was out of work.

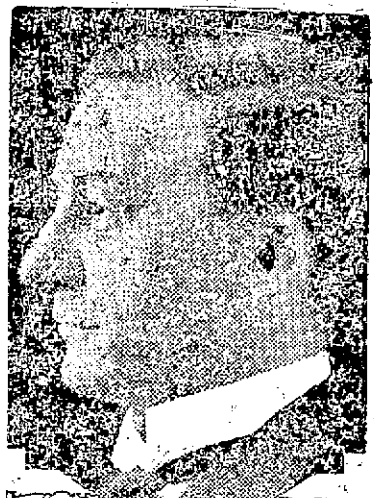

John McQuaid was accustomed to spend most of his time along the river bank, fishing from the rear of the Thoroughgood box factory, in whose lumber yards he was employed much of the time. He had often been seen walking along the guard rail of the lower railway bridge where a mist-step would throw him into the river, and it is believed that an accident of this nature befell him.

McQuaid would have been thirty-six years of age had he lived until March 27. He was not given to drinking but was a man of peculiar habits, spending the greater part of his time alone, and speaking to but very few people. It is believed that he suffered from melancholia, and possibly more serious mental derangement.

Surviving McQuaid are his father, now in his ninety-fifth year, and two brothers, John and Patrick, all living in Beloit. His remains were removed to that city today for interment in the Roman Catholic cemetery.

Herman Hall, 1215 South Cherry street, and sister, found the corpse about three o'clock yesterday afternoon when hunting for drift-wood on the east side of the river. Only a part of it was visible above the surface, and was snagged at the edge of some willows. Chief of Police Appleby with two men from the Kimball undertaking establishment, removed it to the morgue.

PICKED FOR JOBS IN DIPLOMATIC SERVICE

William F. McCombs (top) and Henry Morzenian.

William F. McCombs, Wilson's campaign leader, and Henry Morzenian, New York financier, are slated for important diplomatic posts. The new president has said that he wants men of cabinet caliber for ambassadors. McCombs was offered a position in the Wilson cabinet, but declined.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE CALL OF THE FUTURE.

Three prime requisites are needed for success in this age. The first is energy. The second is faith. The third is vision.

Never did the future so call to the spirits of men as now. It holds out an alluring prospect of the progress of the world. Vision is needed to see the mighty things in store.

The men who win in a big way are those who dare. This does not mean recklessness, but the very opposite. It means the ability to plan a campaign, the quick understanding to perceive how the plan will work out and the courage to take a chance.

Recklessness is blind, but the leaders required for the work of the world, for the great enterprises, must be anything but blind.

They must know the psychology of men and be able in some degree to read the future.

This reading of the future requires no clairvoyance or second sight. That which is to come is seen by the light of that which has gone. The currents of the world are perceived; the probabilities are taken into account; the chances are weighed out to as near a mathematical exactitude as that is possible.

The winner is the one who banks on future progress in an intelligent way, who so shapes his affairs that he will profit by this progress, who looks ahead.

Knowledge is required. We must know our business down to the last detail, know it so that it becomes a habit of thought.

Imagination is also necessary. With our knowledge of the business, of the trend of the times and of human nature, we must build the picture of that which is to be.

The successful chess player is he who pines many moves ahead. He knows in advance how to meet any possible attack.

The young man who is wise in this day looks to the future more than to the past, or if he studies the past it is only that he may better know the future.

He does not take up a profession that is on the wane, but one that is growing, and he grows with it.

Who can measure the marvelous strides that humanity will take in the next twenty-five or fifty years? Think how this development will call for men!

Even now big employers will tell you that there is a dearth of $10,000 men. Imagine how much greater the chances for such men will be with the expanding enterprises of the next generation.

The young man who has the right stuff in him, who is keen, ambitious and alive to his opportunities, who has energy, faith and vision, will prepare himself to meet this demand. He will hear the call of the future.

Softening Light for Invalid.

When any one is ill electric light in the room, if very strong, will tend to hurt the eyes and probably induce headache and cause a rise of temperature. Run a drawstring in so as to tie it on quickly, otherwise the patient will object to the fuss.

It Happened in School.

The story is told of a teacher who recited to her pupils "The Landing of the Pilgrims" after which she requested each pupil to try to draw from the description a picture of the Plymouth Rock. One little fellow raised his hand and asked: "Please, teacher, do you want us to draw a hen or a rooster?"

Carload Just Arrived The Buick "30"

Sells for $1125
F. O. B. Flint

The Buick "30" is a motor car of the highest type. It has the appearance that makes the people you pass take that second look.

It has the power that will take you anywhere and bring you back.

It has the durability that makes it a good investment. It costs less to run it and to keep it up than it does any car ever built.

It is easy riding, easy to handle, commodious, graceful in body contour, and it is beautiful of finish.

Every part that goes into Buick manufacture is made in the Buick shops.

There are 110,000 Buicks on the road. Some of them have gone 150,000 miles and are still going. The company challenges anybody to produce a worn out Buick or one which has been junked because the owner couldn't secure parts.

The Buick shops are the largest in the world, and you can find a Buick dealer anywhere you go. And the Buick sign is always a sign of good treatment.

The Famous Buick Overhead Valve motor is guaranteed to have more power and more speed than any other type of motor on the market. It will pull stronger on low grade gasoline than any other type of motor ever built and the fuel consumption is less.

The secret of Packey McFarland's success has been found. He can control his stomach. A bowl of bread and milk and two dishes of ice cream are said to have formed his part of a banquet he attended after his defeat of Britton. It will be remembered that the well-known Napoleon is said to have lost the French Empire because he did not take care of his stomach. Maybe Packey, yearning to be a little Napoleon of the prize ring, has this in mind.

There ought to be some real racing at Kalamazoo, Mich., next August. Twenty-six thousand dollars will be up as stakes in the early closing races for the renewal of the city's Grand Circuit races, August 4 to 9 inclusive. The two feature events are the Paper Mills purse of $12,000 for 2:14 trotters and the Burdick Hotel purse of $6,000 for 2:12 pacers. These races will be unique, as being decided on the four-heat plan, the winner of the respective events to receive a trophy to his share of the money.

ANOTHER EASY GAME WON BY JANSVILLE

Defeat Beloit Team on Their Own Floor Last Night by Score of 38 to 12.

The Jansville high school basketball team defeated the Beloit five by the score of 38 to 12 in a contest on the Beloit floor last evening. The locals played a whirlwind game in the first half which ended 28 to 3 in their favor. In the second half Beloit was responsible for some rough work and succeeded in scoring 9 points to Jansville's 10. Hemming was not in the line-up for Jansville, and the subs were given a chance.

The high school team will meet the alumni in a game at the rink tonight.

AMERICANS ARE EXHIBITORS AT PARIS HORSE SHOW

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Paris, March 22.—The annual Paris horse show opened this afternoon and will continue through ten days. The two of the best pitchers on the Cleveland staff.

Part Humphries, pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, believes he is developing a raise ball such as made old Joe McGinnity famous in his days with the New York Giants. Humphries has been working on this under-hand delivery all spring under the tutelage of Roger Bresnahan, who used to handle the slants of McGinnity. The acquisition of control is the main difficulty about the delivery, and Humphries is said to be rapidly acquiring the ability to hoist the ball into about any particular spot he desires.

Yale is looking to a sophomore, T. H. Cornell, to uphold its honor in sprinting this season. He was the fastest freshman sprinter at Yale last year, being credited with a ten-second mark. He will make his first varsity appearance in the University of Pennsylvania relay races April 26.

"Knockout Brown" is making the most of the trusting folk on the Pacific Coast. After being knocked out by Joe Rivers on Washington's birthday, he came back and fought that coming fighter, Bud Anderson, to a draw. Now, Tom McCarey, owner of the Vernon arena, has signed up Brown and Anderson for a return bout, the fighters to weigh 133 pounds at noon on the day of the fight, April 12. McCarey will match the winner with Joe Mandot.

Americans have not sent so many horses as in some previous years, but they are well represented. Among the donors of prizes are Alfred G. Vanderbilt and James Hazen Hyde, who have offered cups of a value of $500 for the best turned-out park road four-in-hands.

THE BACK YARD FARMER

BY Prof. John Willard Bolte

Does the Farm Offer the City Man a Living?

The title to this talk is a question that is asked the writer more often, possibly, than any other. Does the farm hold out a promise of a comfortable living along with its advertised independence? Can the ordinary city-bred man, with or without a cash capital of his own, undertake farming with any assurance of success in a money way.

Unfortunately, this question cannot be answered, save in a qualified manner. Hundreds, yes, probably thousands of city men have gone into farming in some of its branches and have been entirely successful. Possibly as many more have taken the same step and have been mighty glad to give up their independence for a regular job at the risk of some one else. As in all other independent pursuits, it depends almost entirely on the man.

The farm is no place for a lazy man. It is not all new mown hay and fresh strawberries with clotted cream. Most of it is hard work, with plenty of perspiration mixed in. It means long hours, from before dawn until after dark, most of the year. City farmers who have failed have been, for the most part, those who expected to put in an eight-hour day and let nature do the rest.

The fact that must be borne in mind is that nature by herself rarely produces profitable crops. The profit in farming is represented by the difference between what nature would produce if left alone, and what man forces her to produce by his thought and work, the cost of his work being deducted from the gross receipts from the crops. Work is what makes for success in farming as in any other line—work and careful planning.

We are entirely safe in saying here that a city bred man of intelligence and perseverance can undoubtedly make as good a living on the farm as he can in business, on the average. If he has to do manual work, as he certainly will, his reward will come in strong muscles and a clear, fresh brain. If he has to put in longer hours, he will be able to sleep nights and awake in the morning as fresh as a lad. The lowly natural things that he comes in contact with in his daily work are at least as nature made them, which cannot be said of the filthy surroundings in most sections of every large city.

What line should a city man take up in order to be reasonably sure of success at the start? Subject to local conditions, we would name the following list of agricultural pursuits in the order of their precedence: Poultry and fruit, dairy farming, small fruit farming, truck gardening. A number of other special local lines could be added, but we do not advise any inexperienced man to attempt general farming or the handling of a large tract of land until he has had time to become familiar with general farming practice. It is absolutely certain that any of the above lines, carefully handled on a small scale, will enable a man to earn a hundred dollars a month on an average, over and above expenses, provided he owns his land and buildings. As he becomes familiar with his problems he can hire others to work for him and materially increase his own income.

What Steel Contains.

"Unmagnetizable steel," says Emil Grossman, "contains from 9.8 to 10.3 per cent. of manganese and to 1.4 per cent. of titanium. The silicon contents must be less than .8, carbon below .38 and phosphorous .015. The value of such a steel where a shield for electric current is needed can be appreciated in ignition and other work."

Tenacity.

"Speaking of having a tooth pulled," observed the philosopher, "that is one instance where a man is bound to stay and see the thing out."

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

Sim Slyman sought with all his might To gain a store of wealth. He worked at noon, he worked at night.

He did his best by stealth. He tricked the widow, robbed the fool. To any scheme he'd hitch; His life devoid of honest rule. The man grew very rich.

Sim Slyman's nephew, Happy Dick. Was honest as could be. No one he strove to rob or trick— A kindly chap was he. He often helped, when luck was bad. Some other with his pelf; So much he gave he rarely had A dollar for himself.

Sim Slyman on a certain day Dropped dead and left no will; And Happy Dick now gives away Sim's wealth with care and skill. And so we see, if we have eyes And brains to match the rest, That fate is sly and very wise And knows her business best. —Atlanta Journal.

"Sim Slyman" is a familiar character and almost every community produces his prototype—men whose consuming ambition is to accumulate, and whose round of pleasure consists in hoarding wealth. This habit, like all others, grows with the years, and as this class of men approach the edge of time, the more eagerly they grasp their possessions and, if possible, they would carry them out beyond the flood to the world unknown. The "Happy Dicks" are the natural offspring of these hard environments, and wealth thus accumulated seldom requires the aid of an inheritance tax for generous distribution.

There are some traits of character which come to us as a birthright, but the disposition to be miserly is not one of them, and so it happens that hoarded wealth, as a rule is scattered by the next generation.

The trouble with the most of us is that we are so far from misers that we go to the other extreme and become liberal spenders, and whether our wealth is inherited or accumulated by our own effort, the disposition is to live up to our income and spend it freely.

The long era of prosperity, which has blessed us as a nation, has developed all sorts of extravagances, and many things which were considered luxuries have become necessities.

The value, which we place on money, depends upon the effort required to secure it. If it comes easy, it is likely to go just as easy, and there is more easy money in circulation today than at any time in the history of the country.

This is why all sorts of fake schemes, which promise something for nothing, are so readily exploited. The most of us object to hard work, and the slow processes of accumulation, but are ready to invest in anything which offers quick returns without effort.

Southern California is mostly laid out in town lots, while the pictures of Florida indicate that orange groves cover the state, and invite to a life of ease and luxury in a perpetual summer climate. Not quite so bad as salted mines, but full-fledged gold bricks, nevertheless.

The "Tampa Tribune" said, the other day, that the state had shipped so far this season seven million boxes of citrus fruits, and would add another million before the season closed, but forgot to say anything about the price, or the hundreds of thousands of boxes that will never be gathered, because of an overstocked market.

When the fact is considered that this kind of fruit is one of the principal productions of the state, it is easy to understand why Southern farming seems like a joke to Northern people.

The mainstay of Florida—and this is in a measure true of California—is the large crop of tourists who annually invade the territory. Many of them, especially on the east coast of Florida, are of the newly rich "Happy Dick" class.

One of the principal attractions for this class of spenders is the American Monte Carlo, known as the "Beach Club," run in connection with the "Royal Poinciana" at Palm Beach. It is no uncommon thing for $50,000 to change hands here, in a night.

Collier's Weekly recently stirred up the press of the state by a story, written by a special correspondent, sent out to write up this famous resort.

One of the papers in commenting, said:

"He listed Palm Beach as a first-class gambling resort. He put it up a notch ahead of Monte Carlo, for he said the roulette wheels at the Beach Club had two zeros whereas the wheels at Monte Carlo had only one zero. Persons who are familiar with roulette probably know what this difference makes. The average person will not be able to make much distinction between single and double zero. It may be that the player has no chance to win at Monte Carlo and at Palm Beach he has twice as little."

Collier's correspondent says the gambling at the Beach Club is the happiest gambling in the world, for the gambler gambles with absolute security. He need have no fear of a flock of blue coats breaking in upon his play and disturbing him at the most interesting moment. Here again the writer was correct. The gamblers at Palm Beach have no fear of the blue coats; Palm Beach has the most accommodating lot of blue coats that ever frocked such unfaithful minions of the law. The writer goes on then to tell why it is that there is no fear of the law and here he falls into error—the Beach Club, he explains, is licensed by the State, life gives the impression, and that it is because he got the impression, that the State of Florida countenances and approves the Beach Club and its gambling."

The local newspaper man claims that Collier's has libeled the state, and then furnishes the following interesting information, which, to say the least, is enlightening.

"The newspapers of Florida should do what they can to offset this libel. The state does not license or countenance gambling. The Beach Club exists through the inertia or corruption of the police officers of Palm Beach county. The Florida East Coast railroad, owned by that great and good man, Henry M. Flagler, has dominated the politics of the East Coast for many years. It is known in Palm Beach and Dade counties that the railroad elects (or controls, or purchases immunity from) the sheriffs of those counties, for there's a gambling club at Miami, also, connected with the Flagler hotel there."

"The writer in Collier's Weekly does not dwell upon the beauties of Palm Beach as a resort—he finds that Palm Beach is Palm Beach because of the Beach Club. The Beach Club is Palm Beach, according to his critical appraisal, and the Beach Club is the Beach Club because of its well regulated and exclusive gambling. Nobody can gamble there who cannot afford to gamble, hence it is good gambling, sanctioned by the State, and is consequently all right."

"Which leads to the conclusion: Was the law against gambling framed to apply to a certain class of individuals or was it intended to apply to ALL offenders? Is it a law, or a mere regulation? Is an officer of the law given any discrimination in executing the law, or is he bound to do his duty without fear or favor? Is an officer's oath binding or not, and for what does he give a bond, if not for the faithful performance of the duties of his office? What is the duty of a sheriff in whose county a notorious gambling house is located?"

Henry M. Flagler, now eighty years old, and blind, has long been inseparably connected with the development of Florida. His railroad extending from St. Augustine to Key West, and his twenty-five hotels, along the route, are thronged with tourists, during the winter months, and he catches them going and coming. They are the great revenue-producers of the state.

Here is the copy of an old-fashioned will, made the other day by a woman on Long Island. It is in sharp contrast to the Palm Beach environments, and the nephew, so thoughtfully remembered, will be obliged to work out his own salvation.

"My good coal shovel, my good manure fork, and my potato fork" are devised to John W. Neesham, a nephew of Mrs. Magdalen Hendrickson of Creedmoor, L. I., in Mrs. Hendrickson's will, which was filed for probate yesterday in Surrogate Daniel Noble's office at Jamaica, L. I. Neesham, who lives at Creedmoor, also receives "the table in the dining room that belonged to his great-grandmother," and his aunt's best patchwork quilt.

To another nephew, Edward Martin of Flushing, L. I., Mrs. Hendrickson gives her dog, Mike, and $100, "to be used to keep and care for him." Sarah Townsend, a niece, is to receive "the crazy quilt and the tidies she gave me."

In bequeathing her home in Creedmoor to George Hendrickson, another nephew, and his wife, Adella, Mrs. Hendrickson stipulates that her old rocker and the chair used by her deceased husband are to remain in the attic of the home, but that these beneficiaries may also have their aunt's "every day using chairs."

In disposing of her furniture, pots, pans, other kitchen utensils, and other household fittings of every description, Mrs. Hendrickson made twenty-eight bequests in a long will, containing seventeen paragraphs."

A New Idea.

"I've got a great money-making idea," said Mr. Binks to his neighbor.

"What's that?" inquired the neighbor.
"Do you see that automobile of mine?" asked Mr. Binks, pointing with all of the pride of a campaign speaker.

"I do. What of it?"
"Well, every time I take that car apart to fix it and put it together, I always have fifteen or twenty parts left over and I can't find any room for them. I have taken that car apart three times and I have got the back end of my garage full of parts and the car runs just as well as it ever did. My idea is this. I think when a man has taken a car apart say six times, he will have enough parts left over to build a new car, exclusive of the body. I am going to make my car apart every week and I think I ought to be able to build at least three new cars out of it. Then I will sell the old car and get another and start taking them apart. I figure that I ought to clean up about 300 per cent on every car I buy."

Miss Amy Pringle has been down to the city to be re-named. She is one of our most polished young ladies. Mr. H. Huggins has bought a house and lot on the installation plan and it all goes well his great-grandson will be able to make the last payments. When Miss Euphemia Perkins was down to the Rapids she went into a store to buy a shirtwaist. She told a clerk what she wanted and he said: "What bust, madam?" Miss Perkins looked all around nervously and replied: "Blessed if I know, sir; I didn't hear anything."

SOUTH CAROLINIAN GIVEN A PAT JOB

James M. Baker of South Carolina has been selected by the Democrats as the new secretary to the United States senate. This job pays $5,000 a year, only $1,000 less than a senator gets, and was much sought after. Joseph Wilson, the president's brother, was a candidate but was defeated. Mr. Baker is a university graduate in law and has served for some time as a librarian in the senate. He had the backing of Senator Ben Tillman for the position.

RECORD LIGHT VOTE
AT RECENT PRIMARY

ONLY TWENTY THOUSAND VOTES
POLLED IN MILWAUKEE
LAST TUESDAY.

WOMEN VERY SCARCE

Ellis B. Usher Pays Respects to Wisconsin Suffragists—Phases of Vice Investigation.
(By Ellis B. Usher.)

Milwaukee, March 22.—The primary election held, here, on Tuesday, developed the lightest vote known, only 20,000 votes were polled out of a possible 150,000, on school matters, and the women were very scarce. The second choice got little or no attention, and those who attempted to use it "balled up," so the clerks could not tell what they tried to do, and took three days to count the light vote.

The logic of women has often been the subject of derision by the joke-smiths. The Wisconsin suffragists seem to be trying to prove up that it has been deserved. They are asking the legislature to make the referendum ridiculous by an immediate re-submission of the proposition for an amendment of the constitution, when it has just been buried deeper than any proposition ever submitted to the people of this state. In school matters the women have the right to vote, and have had it for years. But they do not exercise it, notwithstanding the schools are an important field of women's employment, and the most important theater, outside the home, for making good American citizens. If the right of ballot sits so lightly, and imposes no obligation to exercise so important a privilege in so important a field, why expect a more serious consideration of the privilege if it should be broadened? Perhaps the old biblical doctrine of being faithful in small things, is non-progressive. Most such sentiments are cast in the scrap-heap by now, I suppose.

It is evident, from the eloquent silence that has suddenly spread over the subject of vice in department stores, that some of the enthusiastic reformers have found their hands in live coals. It is altogether good for them and I hope they may learn a lesson. For merely seeing a poster, which are so much in fashion, governors began proclaiming their co-operation with this attack on low wages as a promoter of vice. But my barber put me wise, the other day, when he said, to me, with more force than elegance: "Don't be a fool, those fellows are putting a stigma upon every working woman." That was either a matter of indifference, to the great philanthropists of the Illinois Legislative Committee where the thing started, or else it was a mere matter of political stupidity. But, which ever handle of the dilemma one chooses, it was a wholly unjustifiable outrage, and it is so regarded by the women who work, and all of their friends and relations and by other decent people. It illustrates, in a jointed manner that I hope may be beneficial, the fact that there are two serious sides to all these questions affecting the moral, social and business relations of men and women. It also illustrates, as a lawyer, that the unexpected effects of many of our new laws, and of the agitation accompanying them are often more far-reaching than the specific evil that they set out to eradicate by statute.

The statement, was a bit, "previous," in last week's letter, that an injunction had been granted to prevent the new attorney general from enforcing the advertising law on the newspapers. It did issue, however, on Monday last. This prevents their execution of the law until the Supreme Court has determined its constitutionality. I notice that the thing is moving, in the states, Indiana has just passed a law to tighten the buttons on the newspaper straight-jacket. This is the legitimate result of the muckraking of the past ten years, and the newspapers, like the railroads have helped to bring it about themselves. They have hurled epithets at anybody and everybody who would not be what they were pleased to term "progressive." The medicine is as good for the goose as for the gander, perhaps. I despise it, but I am a "tory," and all the other names that are vile. But I still maintain, with Webster, that our country's institutions, have "an ancestry, a pedigree and a history." They didn't just happen.

An Advertisement for the Erie. "Aw, what's de matter with you, ain't these cars good enough for you?" said a trainman, in the Erie station at Jersey City, to President Frederick Underwood, of that railroad, recently. "Underwood, of that railroad, recently," the man didn't know his superior officer who had inquired for his private car. Well, if you know Mr. Underwood, you know that quipped him, and perhaps, none the less because he used to "sass" himself, sometimes, in the presence of greatness, and not always by accident, either. I remember an old story of a harmless accident at Racine Junction, years ago, when Mr. Underwood was a conductor, that seemed to come out to the advantage, rather than the harm, of the future railroad president. General Manager Merrill's private car was on the rear of Mr. Underwood's train. A careless switchman, on the "Y" let a freight car bang into the express train and scared people, but hurt nobody. Mr. Merrill had his early education as a section boss, and his vocabulary was a radiant one. He was a big man too, about Mr. Underwood's size. Well, he got out on the platform, and right in the midst of the crowd, he raked Mr. Underwood, fore and aft with punctuations that were not foot long. Finally he finished and turned to go. Then it was the conductor's turn, and putting out a hand to detain Mr. Merrill, he proceeded to return his oration in kind, telling his superior among other things, in retort to criticisms of his way of running a train, that Mr. Merrill would get lost on a modern passenger train. The funny side of the thing was so obvious that the general manager went back to his car, with no further remarks, and it may not have had anything to do with it, but it was not long before that conductor was a division superintendent, and he has climbed right along ever since. He never forgets the old home though. I see he has recently had a new steam lighter of the Erie in New York harbor, named the "Milwaukee."

The Tanager paintings which were on exhibition last week at the Milwaukee Art galleries, had 2,000 visitors. The exhibitions have been a great success, this year, and are doing much to arouse interest in pictures in this city. This comes about, in marked degree, by bringing together and into acquaintance the lovers of art. An exhibition of paintings of western scenes, by Moran Daingerfeld, and other fine artists is now being shown. The English play, "The Blindness of Virtue," will be on the boards at the Davidson next week. It is produced by the original London Little Theatre company, and has aroused interest wherever they have played.

Dramatics have been more to the front this winter in Milwaukee amateur circles than ever before, and Mrs. E. P. Sherry and a few local patrons of the drama are exerting an active influence for a more elevated stage.

TRAINING SCHOOL NOTES.

The senior geography class made a pleasant and profitable visit to the Lewis Knitting Works not long ago. Miss Vera Irving whose home is in Illinois near the lake, has been spending several days visiting her parents. A circular letter has recently been sent out to twenty country teachers, explaining about the new plan for observation and practice in a country school.

The members of the senior class have sent out letters to the teachers with whom they will observe and practice, settling the matter of dates and the like.

The physiology class learned much about the heart one day this week when Miss Burdick dissected that wonderful organ for them and demonstrated its functions. Such objective teaching is valuable.

Miss Ellen McCabe, a teacher in the Heloit schools, was much interested in the work of the training school on Friday, when she visited her sister, Miss Frances McCabe, who is a student there.

Principal Lowth attended a club meeting in Clinton Thursday evening at which time the subject of consolidation was very ably presented by W. E. Larson, State inspector of rural schools.

Several visitors have been at the office during the past week. The rhetorical program on March 19 was presented in good form. Two visitors were present.

The following students are members of the senior class:

Esther Barnum, Orfordville; Florence Bradford, Shopiere; Harriet Clinton, Janesville; Anna Forton, Clinton; Mabel Francis, Janesville; Helen Gray, Beloit; Margaret Kelly, Janesville; Katherine Knight, Footville; Alice Loothorn, Chippewa County; Edna Loomis, Janesville; Alice Lomary, Minnetonka; Nellie Maloy, Evansville; Margaret Mawhinney, Lima; Francis McCabe, Beloit; Nora McCarthy, Edgerton; Minnie Milbrandt, Evansville; Flora Robinson, Janesville; Lydia Somerfelt, Fulton; Margaret Vickerman, Milton Junction.

Mr. Pierce of Koshkonong visited the training school on Wednesday.

From reports that are coming in it would seem that several more of the country teachers will try out the school garden plan this spring.

Miss Nellie Bradley of the Edgerton high school spent Friday afternoon visiting the training school classes.

Miss Harriet Park, a teacher near Edgerton spent a portion of the day at the school recently witnessing the work done.

Nothing great or good in this world was ever accomplished without enthusiasm.

Some teachers fail because they lack heart power and others because they lack will power.

Teaching school is a spiritual process not the turning of a crank. Sometimes the creaking of the wheels is painful. A good teacher is not a whirler of pedagogical wheels.

Some College Definitions.

Commencement—The end.

Senior—One who rides a pony in the race for a sheepskin.

Junior—One who knows it all and tries to teach the faculty.

Valedictorian—A wind instrument belonging to the graduating class.

Diplomacy—The art of getting what you want without a quarrel.

Gratitude—A lively appreciation of favors to come.

A man and his wife, each weighing 150 pounds, with two sons each weighing 75 pounds, have to cross a river in a boat which is capable of carrying only 150 pounds weight. How will they get across?

Do you know what a gumption problem is? Sometimes it is very useful to the grove runners and others.

If my horse weighs a thousand pounds standing on four legs, how much will he weigh standing on three legs?

Content.

I would have nobody control me; I would be absolute, and who but I? Now, be that is absolute can do what he likes; he that can do what he likes can take his pleasure; he that can take his pleasure can be content; he that can be content has no more to desire. So the matter's over; and come what will come, I am satisfied.—Cervantes.

Good Business.

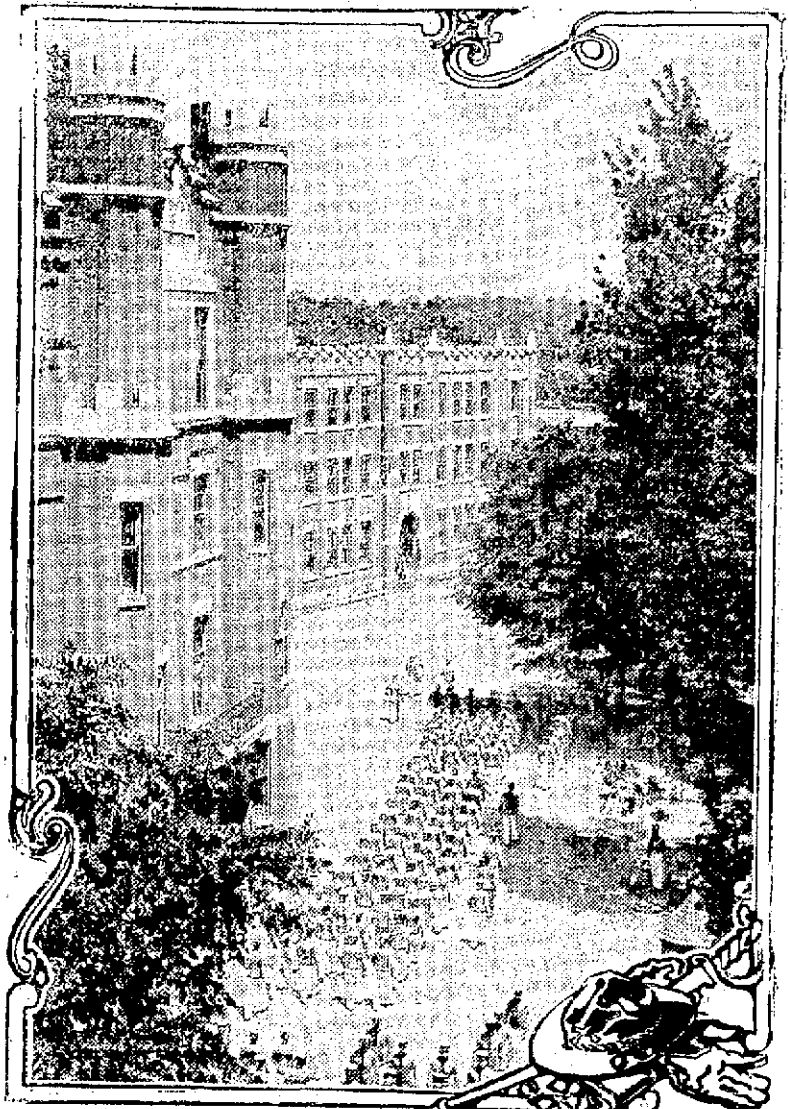

An evangelist who has been holding services in Atchison received $1,700 for two weeks' effort. This is more than most of the faithful Atchison pastors receive for a year's work. However, the revivalist made a record of 895 conversions, which is also largely in excess of that of any local pastor.—Kansas City Star.

"PASSING BARRACKS" ONE OF LYMAN H. HOWE'S STRIKING SCENES OF CADET LIFE AT TYPICAL U. S. MILITARY SCHOOL.

"HOWE'S PICTURES."

"Military training in America is very deficient," was the remark recently made by an Englishman. He was not a competent critic because he had just arrived in America and consequently was speaking, not from observation, but from the preconceived notion that seems to prevail abroad generally. He merely voiced the sentiment of that vast population in England which is thoroughly convinced that nowhere under the sun is there to be found a system of military training quite as admirable as that in the right little island. His remark was too premature, because if he had traveled and seen more of America, he would not have made it. He probably would have learned what all travelers realize; namely, that the longer they sojourn in any particular country the less they have to say about it because with each succeeding day of observation they realize they have much to learn and that many of their first impressions were entirely wrong. Strange as it may seem, they usually admit that they do not know as much about America after being here one year as they think they know after being on these shores for only one week. The visitor who made the aforementioned remark was exactly of this type. His comment was overheard by Lyman H. Howe, who at once decided on a very direct and practical method of discounting the prevalent opinion expressed by the Englishman. He dispatched his photographers to Culver, Indiana, where a model military training school is located. There, amid scenes of most idyllic beauty, they secured an elaborate series of animated views which show the methods, tactics, precision, discipline, sports, activities and equipment of a model military training school. These views prove conclusively that instead of military training in America being "deficient," it is, on the contrary, as efficient as the training of the best military institutions in any country in the world. In fact, the perfect drills, horsemanship, manoeuvres, target and other phases of the student's life, depicted from his arrival as a raw recruit to his graduation as a cadet, will come as a revelation even to Americans. They will be presented by Mr. Howe at the Myers Theatre, March 25 and 27, matinee Thursday at four o'clock. This splendid reproduction was made possible only by the active co-operation of the officers and authorities of the academy who freely extended the facilities to obtain such striking scenes. Although the United States war department has for many years designated this academy as one of the most distinguished institutions of the kind in America, it has not been so well known by the public-at-large and that very fact lends additional interest to these scenes.

A thrilling escape from infuriated lions, building a New York sky-rail, dynamiting the Simpson Tunnel connecting Italy and Switzerland; another through the Niagara Gorge; a visit of La Granja, Spain; the Milan Cathedral; Paris fashions; jelly fish of the Mediterranean; and trapping moulters are some of the features of the new program.

"OUR WIVES."

Previous to Miss Pamela Gaythorne's coming to America to become one of the leading women at the New Theatre in New York she had become extremely well known in London for her remarkable versatility. Miss Gaythorne has appeared there as leading woman for Arthur Boucher, Cyril Maude, H. D. Irving and Oscar Asche, and she has taken the leading feminine roles in "The Man on the Box," "Samson," "Brother Officers" and "The Fascinating Mr. Vandervelt," all large English successes. Perhaps her greatest success was attained in "Dame Nature," the English version of "La Femme Nue." Last year she appeared in this country as leading woman in "Winthrop Ames" production of John Galsworthy's "The Pigeon." She has now agreed to appear under the management of Joseph M. Gales for the next three years. Her first place under his management is "Our Wives" in which she is playing the leading role.

"BROADWAY JONES."

The coming to the Myers Theatre Friday evening April 4, of "Broadway Jones" will be looked forward to as the real event of the season's theatricals, as Mr. Cohen's new play has been a six months' sensation in New York and has been conceded by all the critics to be the very best play in New York, and the best play by Geo. M. Cohen has ever written.

This latest offering from the pen of the gifted author, is a comedy devoid of slang, as that vernacular is popularly defined, yet it contains enough smart and breezy chatter to keep the four acts in which it is written whirling along at a speed snafu that keeps it abreast of the studio that Cohen gets for all his brain children and in this case a stride or two ahead. When the play opens "Broadway Jones" is arriving home very late in a condition that one is not likely to arrive at very early. The youth is supposed to be very rich, but the morning after the night before discloses the fact that he has run through his money, and has engaged himself to a rich old woman in order to get ready cash to pay off his debts. His friends try to break off the engagement but fail. Then Jones, who gets word that his uncle has died and left him a big property in the shape of a Chewing Gum Factory, and the real action of the play begins. The scenes that follow show how the young fellow is brought around from a desire to sell his new property for what ever it will bring, to an earnest determination to keep it for the good of the little Connecticut town of which it is the sole industry and "Broadway Jones, money burner and man about town becomes Jackson Jones, factory owner and leading man in his community.

The cast includes John Webster, Ralph Morgan, George Schaefer, Charles Hill, Edith Locket, Grace Morrissey, Marie Taylor, George G. Henry, Chas. H. Henderson, Daniel Burns, George Staley, Dore Rodgers and others.

RECALLS EXPERIENCE ON DAY OF LINCOLN'S DEATH

Forty-eight years ago the 8th of April, Fort Spanish in Mobile Bay surrendered to the Union forces. The next day Fort Blakely also capitulated. Among the several Wisconsin regiments engaged in taking other forts were the 8th and 35th. On the 12th of April the federal troops crossed the bay and took formal possession of the city of Mobile and the command went into camp on the outskirts of the city.

On the 12th of April the large powder magazine of the city was blown up with a terrific explosion. A large force of colored troops were engaged in carrying ammunition from the several battalions for storage in magazine. It is supposed that a shell was dropped by one of the handlers and the explosion followed. The magazine was surrounded by a large number of low cotton sheds, which at that time were occupied by colored troops and government mules. It was not known how many troops were killed, but the number was estimated at between 500 and 600 and the number of mules at 1000. Robert Scott, Willis Nash and the writer were returning to camp from the city and had got about 80 rods from the magazine when the explosion took place. All three of us were thrown to the ground but escaped injury. Brick and stones were scattered all around us. Every light of glass in the battle house, the largest hotel in the city was broken as were nearly all of them in buildings for miles around. We turned about and went back to the city. The cotton sheds at this time had caught fire and the bay and wharves were covered with the mangled bodies of colored troops and mules and the fire department assisted by such soldiers as were in the city were busy fighting the fire and trying to save the lives of the unfortunates. The bales of cotton that were scattered around caught fire and burned all night.

While standing on the wharf watching the conflagration we first heard of the assassination of President Lincoln and several lively fights occurred between the federals and citizens who were heard to express pleasure over the shooting. The blowing up of the magazine was almost forgotten by the soldiers in their mourning over the fate of the martyred president, and for several days after it was not safe for a recent sympathizer to open his mouth about the affair. LEVI K. ALDEN, Wisconsin Veterans Home.

Man Who is Half Sick. A physician recently remarked that "it was an awful punishment to be only slightly ill and have nothing to do." The man who is only half sick, if he has nothing to occupy his attention, soon grows morbidly introspective and his mind becomes filled with exaggerated ideas of his condition. Disease grows and flourishes under such conditions. Regular employment is conducive to health. Work keeps the blood active and the mind away from the physical condition.—Health.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED
Two Cases Well Worth Reading

MRS. J. C. DACUS

I have had a running ear since I was about three years old. It had become very offensive, notwithstanding I had tried several physicians without a benefit whatever.

My father meeting a neighbor who told him that his wife had been cured by Lacupla and Peruna, then wrote to Dr. Hartman, asking his advice. He was told that I had catarrh of the middle ear, or chronic otitis.

He recommended Lacupla and Peruna, and after using three bottles of each the discharge and offensive odor are both gone.

Mr. W. C. Nye, of Washington, Vermont, has had a good deal of personal experience with catarrh. He probably knows more about catarrh than a great many people who make a specialty of the subject, for he has had it twenty years himself. There is no other way for the average person to learn anything, than experience. Twenty years wrestling with the problems of catarrh, local treatment and internal treatment, ought to teach a man something.

Mr. Nye tried, he says, many so-called catarrh remedies. He also claims that he received temporary relief from some of them. But all the time his catarrh remained. Ringing in the ears. Muffling of the senses. Drooping in the throat. This remained with him year after year.

He began taking Peruna, without using any local treatment. Just taking the Peruna, according to the directions on the bottle.

It may seem strange to some that a bad case of chronic catarrh can be cured without any local treatment. But the fact remains, nevertheless. The explanation is that catarrh is not a local disease, but a systemic disease. To be sure, it finds local expression. That is to say, it settles somewhere. Quite frequently in the nose and throat. But it is a systemic disease and requires systemic treatment. Something to take. Something that will operate on the whole system. Nothing short of this will cure catarrh. A great many have found this out. It is Mr. Nye. He had had a long campaign of treating his catarrh by the usual methods of treatment, but until he took Peruna his catarrh kept recurring. Now he is well. Peruna did the work.

His testimony is the same as many others who have had similar experiences. Sometimes it helps a little to gargle your throat with strong salt water and to sniff weak salt water into the nose. Such things help a little sometimes, but if a cure is ever to be really accomplished it will be by taking Peruna according to the directions on the bottle. Take it right along regularly, faithfully, until the catarrh disappears.

Mr. Nye is very enthusiastic about Peruna. He stands ready to answer any inquirer who is seeking a remedy for catarrh. Or you might write J. G. Steffe, Sherman, South Dakota. He had been a sufferer from catarrh for several years. He also had tried all sorts of catarrh remedies. He was advised by a friend to try Peruna, which he did. He commenced at once to get better. He is able to say today that he is a well man, and he never ceases to recommend Peruna whenever he can get the chance.

Both of these men are reliable, honest citizens, respected and useful in the community where they live. They did not try Peruna until after they had tried other things. Like most people, who find Peruna after everything else has failed.

Of course you would save time by simply buying your Peruna at once and beginning to take it. Then in the meantime you can write these gentlemen. You will find that not only the things you have read in this article are true, but that they have a great deal more to say in praise of Peruna than we have quoted from them.

An internal remedy for catarrh that is what Peruna is. Whether the catarrh assumes the form of a common cold, or whether it proceeds to the dangerous condition of catarrh of the lungs, for all of the phases of catarrh Peruna is the remedy. Bronchitis, Laryngitis, Pharyngitis, Gastritis, Cystitis. All these are phases of catarrh. Peruna is the remedy.

The symptoms of catarrh of the throat are: First, gagging in morning; hawking stringy mucus. Second, enlarged tonsils. Third, Sore throat at times. Fourth, snoring when lying on the back. Fifth, elongated uvula. Sixth, ulcerated patches in throat. Seventh, throat dry, necessitating clearing throat often. Eighth, coated tongue. Ninth, inside of throat red, inside of throat smart and tickles. Advertisement.

POET'S GRANDSON RINGING UP FARES
Jessie Holliday Dana (top) and Edmund Trowbridge Dana.

Edmund Trowbridge Dana, Harvard graduate and grandson of the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, is a conductor on a Boston street car line. He admits that shortness of funds forces him to it. He denies that he has become estranged from his wife, formerly Jessie Holliday, English portrait painter, who attracted attention by writing the ritual for their marriage. He says that she is planning to come from England in April and rejoin him. Young Dana's father is one of the wealthiest citizens of Cambridge.

The Daily Novelette.
FOUR KINKS.
It was no ordinary game of poker that bent those three wicked heads over the greasy cards.
As their wolfish eyes followed each turn of the cards, stiff flashes of flickering light flattered on their ferocious faces.
In the next room was a beautiful girl. She was on a barrel, but her eyes were on the clock.
"One more minute to play," croaked the tallest of the gamblers.

Simple Things Best.
To retain youth you must cultivate and preserve your power to enjoy simple things. As our terms of pleasure become complex and expensive the soul becomes stiff and cramped. To love simple food and drink, simple methods of play, simple speech, and, above all, the manifest simplicities of nature, makes red blood. Resist the inroads of pessimism. It means the twilight of the soul and the empty night.—Frank Crane.

On a Needle Point.
Indirectly Pasteur solved the famous mediaeval problem: "How many angels can stand on the point of a needle?" Sir W. Crookes said that, altering the word "angels" to "devils," he had found that, of one of the deadliest diseases that had ever scourged mankind, 500 of the maleficent microbes—veritable devils—could, without overcrowding, find a place on the point of the finest needle.

Daily Thought.
Men do less than they ought unless they do all they can.—Carlyle.

Good Word for the Spider.
Even those little weather prophet spiders that build their nests on the grass are of great value. It is claimed that if many of such webs are seen in the morning on the lawn, it will not rain, as these spiders know enough not to build them when it is about to rain. These same spiders capture hundreds of flies, and they are especially valuable in catching mosquitoes. The webs are harmless, as are the spiders, and should never be destroyed.

Here is the greatest proposition ever offered the public in this part of the state.

This is no freak line of cars but a high grade car with a reputation back of it second to none and a line we have been handling for some time.

These cars are absolutely 1912 models, brand new with a finish equal to any 1913. We have only a few and will offer the two following models:

A 50 H. P. seven passenger, torpedo body, 124-inch wheel-base, 36-inch wheels, catalogue price, $2000.00; our price $1200.00 fully equipped.

A 40 H. P. five passenger, torpedo body, 118-inch wheel-base, 34-inch wheels, catalogue price, $1500.00, our price, $975.00 fully equipped.

This is purely a business proposition and within ten days there won't be one of either model on the market

The Easter Bride and Her Problems

ALL over this broad land of ours this week, the Easter bride is walking up the church aisle to the soft strains of the wedding march; and with a very happy face she is turning away from the altar, after the wonderful words have been said, and walking forth into a new world, wherein she will be happy ever after.

At least, so she thinks. Whether her happy faith will prove a reality depends a good deal upon her understanding of what awaits in this new world.

If she is entering it with simply a blissful trust that every thing will go right, the probability is that many things will go wrong.

If she is entering it simply with the understanding that many problems new to her await, the probability is that there will be the usual ups and downs of the usual married couple.

But if she is entering it, not only with the knowledge that many new problems confront her, but with definite preparation for the solving of these problems, the probability is that the matrimonial journey will be happy and full of zest.

For most certainly, many new problems of life do await the Easter bride.

Among them are:

Just how far shall she let her "in-laws" influence her mode of life?

Just when is that fatal line crossed where petting and indulging a husband makes him selfish and unappreciative?

Shall she be cheerfully willing to let her husband spend evenings away from her with the "boys"; or ought she to demand all his evenings with her at home?

Shall she let him give her such money as he wishes to, or shall she have a frank understanding about finances, and put them on a partnership basis?

If it comes to a choice of neglecting herself or the home, which shall she choose? Shall she keep the house spotless and cease to grow mentally; or shall she, through clubs and other associations, keep herself in touch with the things of the day, even though her house suffers?

These and many more are the problems the Easter bride must now solve. It will do her no good to turn her back to them and say they are not there. This will only work harm. For the best way to solve them successfully, is not to let them pounce upon her all unprepared; but to meet them when, they do come, with the calm recognition that results from having long known they were coming and with a solution all prepared by having noted and studied the everyday incidents of life.

For these little incidents are the straws pointing to character and temperament, and telling how to best handle the problems into which character and temperament enter. And the wife who will thus note from which quarter the wind blows, and trim her sails accordingly, is likely to have a prosperous and happy voyage for the little home-raft. Not that she should weakly yield to glaring faults; but she should learn by these little indications how best to root them out.

So the Easter bride, who will recognize the fact that she now has on her hands problems new to her, who will be alertly receptive of every suggestion that may help to their solution, is much more likely to have a prosperous voyage, than the one who refuses to believe in storms, until the storm is upon her.

Domestic Science
DEPARTMENT CONDUCTED BY
Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

In the making of salad is the dressing and combination of one or more materials for foods.

Salads are divided into two classes—dinner salads and luncheon and supper salads.

Dinner salads are served, usually with a perfect French dressing and luncheon or supper salads with a mayonnaise dressing, and these dressings may be as varied as one's good taste and ingenuity may devise.

Material—Olive oil, 6 tablespoonsful; lemon juice or vinegar, 2 tablespoonsful; salt, 1-2 teaspoonful; paprika, 1 cc.

Utensils—Spoon, fork, teaspoon, tablespoon.

Directions—Put a piece of ice about the size of an English walnut into the soupdish, add salt and paprika. Have the oil previously measured into the oil can and pour a few drops at a time into the dish, stirring all the while rapidly. Gradually add the measured oil and beat well. Remember it takes a "miser for vinegar, a spendthrift for oil and a madman to stir it up" if you want a creamy French dressing and there is none finer in the world. Many changes may be "rung in" on this. Chopped parsley, grated onion, watercress, in fact study right relationships of foods and make your own changes.

Easter and Spring Salads.

"Salads were born to do us good." I was particularly reminded of this quote in this week when luncheon with some friends who had returned from an extended trip abroad. One of them said: "Mrs. Kirk, I was so surprised in not finding more unusual salads in France, especially in Paris. Just very simple lettuce, endive and green vegetables with a simple French dressing."

Yes, it takes the Yankee wit to bring some things to perfection, even though they are "fearfully and wonderfully made" as many of our salads are. Salads were and are born to do us good. If we keep just the simplicity in them which we have learned originally from our French friends, I do not say that they should not appeal to the eye, for they should, but they should not be the heavy, indigestible concoctions called salads which we have so often served to us.

Here are some of the delicious fresh spring things all ready for our salads, and we should eat more of them in the next two or three months than in the same time just passed, as they are fine rejuvenators for young or old.

Beets, cabbage, celery, tomatoes, cucumbers, beans, carrots, lettuce, dandelion, watercress, endive, spinach, Spanish onions, asparagus (canned).

Besides the green vegetables are potatoes, eggs, fish (broiler and salmon), oranges, cherries, grapefruit, grapes, nuts, chicken and veal and many other things, too numerous to mention here.

With the materials at hand and the careful preparation of the same—that is, green, crisp, clean and dry, and vegetables and meats cooked and chilled—the next important thing to melt, then break an egg into each cup. Set back in the oven till the whites of the eggs are set. Season with butter, pepper and salt. Use a thin knife to loosen the eggs from the cups and they will retain their shape.

Scalloped Eggs—Four hard-boiled eggs, half cup bread crumbs, half cup milk. Slice eggs in thin rings. Cover bottom of buttered baking dish with crumbs, add eggs sprinkled with salt and pepper, cover with milk; arrange in layers the same way until dish is nearly full. Cover top well with crumbs and brown nicely in moderate oven. If preferred, use white sauce instead of milk.

Pink Pickled Eggs—Shell hard-boiled eggs and drop them into the vinegar in which beets have been pickled. Remove when colored a delicate pink.

For the Lunch Box.

Many school children and working girls who carry lunches object to taking a glass with sauce in it. Those who carry folding lunch boxes find it a trouble to carry the glass home. A lunch is usually dry without something moist to eat with it. The following method of putting up jelly will appeal to many. When using eggs, wash them, then chip off one end of the shell instead of breaking it in the middle to empty the shell of its contents. Then wash the shell inside and put away to be filled with jelly when a bit of fruit juice is on hand. Cover with paraffin and seal the same as jelly glasses. If preferred, the shells can be filled with gelatin.

Some Sandwich Fillers—Cream cheese, lettuce leaves and salad dressing.

Strawberries mashed with powdered sugar and seasoned with lemon juice.

Dutch cheese mixed with olives.

Chopped dates, seasoned olives, grated lemon peel and clove or cinnamon.

Things Worth Knowing.

Render Lard Now—At this time of year I buy my lard and render it myself, usually enough to last all summer. I have then nothing but the best lard and I have it cheaper than I can buy it later. It is not so much work at all. Just pull off the skin, cut in small pieces and render, dipping out the fat as it appears, then put the rest through a strainer. I got a strainer from the 10-cent store, the kind with the two handles on, and it works dandy.

HOUSEHOLD

Egg Ideas.

Eggs, being wholesome and at this season cheap, a problem with many housekeepers is to keep the family from using them when served cold. Changing the way of serving them is the solution of the problem, and one easy but unusual way of preparing them in an appetizing form is to beat them up in quik or in coffee, lemon or other flavor may be added when they are in milk.

Another uncommon way of serving them is to place a bit of butter in each cup of a gem pan, set pan in the oven just long enough for the butter to melt, then break an egg into each cup. Set back in the oven till the whites of the eggs are set. Season with butter, pepper and salt. Use a thin knife to loosen the eggs from the cups and they will retain their shape.

The Kitchen
CABINET

SELF-REVERENCE. Self-knowledge, self-control. These three alone lead life to sovereign power.

THE SCHOOL LUNCHEON.

The schools which provide lunches for the children are yet too few, though success has followed them where the work has been tried. For the thousands of children all over the land, in large cities and in the country, the distances are so great that carrying a lunch is a necessity.

If anybody who has not prepared a lunch basket two hundred days in the year calls it an easy task, she has not given the matter any thought.

If we could look into the lunch baskets of our working people and realize what it means to work, rebuild waste tissues, keep up body heat and energy on the food combinations that have gone out from homes today, we would not marvel at the broods of disease, divorce, suicide and crime. A man's food largely determines what he is.

Our boys, as well as our girls, should be taught in the grades the simple food principles, how to arrange a balanced meal and how to prepare the common foods in an economical and wholesome manner. Then if the lunch basket is not filled as it should be, the child will know how to correct it.

A lunch for a child who spends his time in a not too well ventilated room means different food than does the same child when he is spending the day in the woods or open air.

The food should be simple and limited in quantity. Too great a variety in each lunch is not desirable, but variety from day to day is absolutely necessary to escape monotony. A sweetmeat or two occasionally is always prized, but this kind of food should be used sparingly.

The child who sees his lunch packed and knows just what he will have to eat does not enjoy it with the same zest as he who looks for something as a surprise. We never get too old or staid not to find pleasure in the unexpected. Wrap foods so that one flavor will not leave the whole lump. Air the basket or box over night and keep it fresh and sweet. It is possible, but will take thought to prepare twenty different lunches for as many days.

Nellie Maxwell.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Your prospects will be improved by a little more attention to the changing standards of modern times, and a careful study of details which are now left to others. A journey or change is in store for you which promises good fortune.

Those born today will be too fond of frivolity to give serious attention to anything but a white. The tendency should be allowed to run itself out early in life, for too much restraint will only strengthen it. Sallowiness is easily understood if seen from the inside and explained without harshness by those who are not shallow.

THE world is too much with us; late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers.
—Wordsworth.

The other night long after I should have been sound asleep I was driven from my bed to my desk by the need of trying to express a mood which took possession of me.

If you don't like moods and never have them, please turn the page and read the stocks or the fashions or anything but this.

If you do have them, perhaps you will recognize your own experience.

It was at the close of a day in which I came into possession of a beautiful piece of furniture which I had long wanted. I was in a fever of delight and excitement all day long. I had it fitted into its place in the living-room; I viewed it from every angle; and then I called in the neighbors to rejoice with me, as country folks who have real neighbors always do.

I went to bed still excited and on the heights and then the reaction came. This is what I wrote:

God keep us all from getting too much wrapped up in THINGS.

God keep us from forgetting that there are other things in the world besides THINGS.

Let me remember that after all, these objects that I strive and work for are only the husks of reality.

I love pretty gowns. I love the rich soft silks and the fascinating embroideries and priceless laces. I revel in the glorious coloring of a beautiful fabric or the fine lines of well modeled garments. I want to own these lovely things.

I love beautiful homes; the dull richness of mahogany, the subdued silvery sheen of old rugs, the fascination of fine linen, the exquisite fragility of beautiful china start my heart strings tingling whenever I see them. I want to make my home beautiful with things like these.

But I do not want to forget in my love of these things that after all, kindness and wisdom, fidelity to beliefs, sympathy and truth and love, motherhood and intercourse with friends are far more beautiful than these material things—and more real.

There are times when the fever of possession gets into my blood; there are times when THINGS shut out the real as the fog shuts out the ocean. And then, just when I am forgetting that there is a wonderful, eternal ocean, a corner of the fog lifts and I realize again that the THINGS we give so much of our lives for are just forms.

And then again the fog comes back.

Half of us is soul and half body. We never seem in danger of stifling the body, but the soul sinks all too easily into coma.

I think most of us need to pray every day,—"God keep me from stifling that part of me that knows there is something besides THINGS in the world."

HEART and HOME
PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH
THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I ask you for a few words of consolation. I am a man of 36 and greatly in love with a girl of 27. She always seemed to think a great deal of me, but was going with another young man to whom she became engaged. She has now broken her engagement with him. Although we are far apart, I correspond with her and have lately told her how dearly I love her. She is my ideal of a woman and I know I could never love another as I love her. She writes to me that we can't be anything but friends. How can I get her to love me? She says she is always glad to get my letters and that I seem like a brother to her. She has great confidence in me.

Would it be proper to send her a bouquet of flowers?

BROKEN HEARTED.

Many a good man has loved a good woman who can only return the feelings of a friend. Be thankful that you have a friend, anyway.

But perhaps you can win her love by being patient and showing her many pretty little attentions. Send her flowers by all means. If you can afford it, leave an order with a florist in her town to deliver to her a corsage bouquet every Saturday so that she may have it to wear to church Sunday. Have a card attached to each bouquet, bearing your name and complimenting her.

By-the-way, when you told her you loved her, did you ask her to marry you? Did you tell her you could give her a good home and would try your level best to make her comfortable and happy?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two pals, 17 and 18 years of age. (1)— are being trained to see "the other fellow's view-point," and are coming to understand human nature.

The best assets your children can have as they start out into life for themselves are health, strong, vigorous, intelligently appreciated bodies, and a knowledge of human nature and how to deal with it. The mother who has broad interests, who keeps up with the times, who reads books and papers, whose opinions count for something outside and inside the home, who is living a strong, individual life of her own can do much more for her children than the one who sacrifices all for them.

The sacrifices of the family should be shared by each and every member of it. If there is only money enough for one new dress it should be mother's, her last year's gown can be made into one or two smaller ones. If care is exercised in purchasing, this idea can be carried on for years, the material being cleansed and pressed before making over.

Every mother should have some time each day that is her own absolutely. This should be spent, according to her best judgment, in keeping herself just a little ahead of her children. In this way, and this only, can she avoid the expression heard in so many homes, "Oh, Mother doesn't understand life as it is lived today."

Need the mothers be so wrinkled and care worn? No. In the great majority of cases, no.

The man who holds a public job has little peace or pleasure; the papers say he is a slob, and roast him without measure. And then the uplift magazines get on his trail and bound him, until he leaps around him. So let me raise my garden sassa, remote from public clamor, and saw my wood and now the grass, and nail things with a hammer. Oh, let me cultivate the soil, no laurel wreaths demanding, for there's a peace in humble toil that passeth understanding. When I am dead, no marble shaft will make my fame eternal, as shafts will stand over Old Bill Taft and Woodrow and the Colonel; I'll mildly play my lowly game, with never noise or bustle; I cannot hope for lasting fame, like that of Pastor Russell. But when our little journey's done, perhaps folks will be saying: "He did as much as any one, by sticking to his haying." I gather up the eggs and pack the butter down in firkins, and I'm as happy in my shack as Alich, Clark or Perkins. No enemy with voice or pen is climbing on my record; I sympathize with public men whose lives are fierce and checked.

BLOTCHES ON FACE DRY AND SCALY

Eczema Began in Hair. Spread to Face. Came on Hand and All Over Fingers. Itching Terrible. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

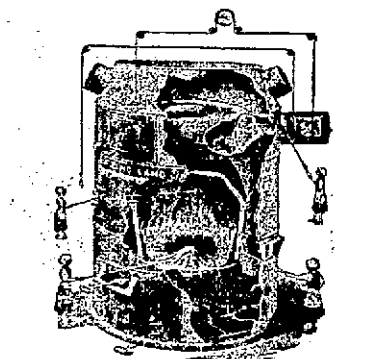

205 Kanter Ave., Detroit, Mich.—"Some time last summer I was taken with eczema. It began in my hair first with red blotches then scaly, spreading to my face. The blotches were red on my face, dry and scaly, not large; on my scalp they were larger, some scaly. They came on my hands. The inside of my hands were all little lumps as though full of shot about one-sixteenth of an inch under the skin. Then they went to the outside and between and all over my fingers. It also began on the bottoms of my feet and the calves of my legs, and then, oh, my! I never had anything like it and hope I never will again. The itching was terrible. My hands got so I could scarcely work."

"I tried different eczema ointments but without results. I also took medicine for it but it did no good. I saw the advertisement for a sample of Cuticura Ointment and Soap and sent for one. They did me so much good I bought some more using them as per directions and in about three weeks I was well again. Cuticura Soap and Ointment entirely cured me." (Signed) Benj. Jassure, Apr. 8, 1912.

A single cake of Cuticura Soap (25c) and box of Cuticura Ointment (50c) are often sufficient when all else has failed. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

For tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

ISLAND PLAYGROUND PRIDE OF LYNCHBURG

Virginia City's Example One That Might Be Profitably Studied and Imitated by Janesville.

Janesville, with a large island in the river awaiting development, might well profit by the example of Lynchburg, Va., which has converted a similar island, lying within its limits, into a well equipped playground and place of recreation for young and old. The account of its development in the March number of "The American City," reprinted here, is interesting and gives valuable suggestions.

"Lynchburg, Va., has one of the most unique and complete playgrounds in this country. It is an island of thirty-one acres, situated almost in the heart of the city. The island was given by one of the business firms of Lynchburg, and the citizens gave $24,000 to equip it as a playground. Every known athletic and recreational feature can be indulged in on this island. It was opened last June, and during the summer more than 37,000 people, boys and girls, men and women, used it constantly. The property is controlled by the Young Men's Christian Association, but the whole city can enjoy its privileges.

"The equipment consists of a commodious club house with shower baths, dressing rooms, lockers, a cafe and big social lobby. Beside the river for expert swimmers, an immense swimming pool is used for teaching swimming and for those who are not expert. There are two baseball diamonds, nine tennis courts, croquet grounds, a large boat house with row boats, canoes and launches, plenty of room for small children's playgrounds, camping, golf, etc.

"As additional money is secured the island will be improved and beautified. It is connected with the city by a bridge, and the whole surroundings are picturequely beautiful and healthy."

ROCKFORD MAY ISSUE BONDS TO IMPROVE WATERWORKS

Bonds to the amount of $410,000 will be issued by the city of Rockford for the reinforcement of its water supply and distribution systems, and the money thus raised will be expended for improvements if the voters approve in proposals now before the council.

The sum of $125,000 will be used to lay twelve inch mains on several streets, make smaller extensions, and close dead ends; $19,000 for the construction of another supply reservoir at the waterworks pumping station with a capacity of one million gallons; and $20,000 for the erection of a stand-pipe or pressure reservoir 175 feet high, with a capacity of 500,000 gallons. Other proposed improvements covered in the bond issue are the installation of dual systems of mains with 20, 16 and 12 inch mains to carry river water to factory and business districts for fire fighting purposes only, with two pumping equipments, at a cost of $250,000; the installation of a new well at the fair grounds park with a capacity of 2,000,000 gallons; a booster stand on the point near Rockford Electric Company plant to give additional pressure to the river supply; and making the present waterworks station entirely fire-proof.

DAVENPORT WILL REDUCE NUMBER OF ITS SALOONS

Davenport, Democrat: Davenport, because of the fact that it operates under a special charter will lose 50 of its 135 saloons within the next three years at the rate of 30 each year.

Beginning July 1 of this year, and continuing for three years, the city will have to reduce its saloons at the rate of 30 each year. According to Senator A. A. Balluff, who returned from Des Moines yesterday after having taken an active part in the fight over the bill, the law is the best that could be brought about under the circumstances.

"The fight over this provision of proposed settlement of the Moon bill came before the senate about two weeks ago," said Senator Balluff.

believe that the settlement is the best that could be procured under the circumstances. Davenport will, of course, lose about 50 saloons while Duhague, the only other special charter city with saloons, will lose about 50 saloons.

Both sides of the contention over the saloon ruling seem to be satisfied with the results and the city will profit by having the number of saloons cut down gradually and thereby so many buildings will not be made vacant all at one time.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANT OPERATED BY SEWAGE GAS

Germany has satisfactorily demonstrated that it is possible to light towns by sewage gas at a profit. The municipality of Bruenn, after many years of experiment, has perfected machinery which dries the sewage and afterwards distills it in retorts. In the same way, as gas is distilled, the sewage distillation 100 kilogranmes of sewage mud yield 23.5 cubic kilometers of gas of virtually the same composition as coal gas. In addition are obtained good coke and three times as much ammonia as is given by an equal weight of coal. The profit is so great that it is said to cover the whole cost of running the municipal sewage purification works. In addition to solving the problem of disposing of sewage in an absolutely hygienic way—American City.

TRACTION ENGINES EMPLOYED TO RUN LIGHTING PLANT

Ohio, Ill.—Ohio citizens are again supplied with water and light by the use of a clever makeshift in place of the engines damaged when the water tank fell Monday. Two threshing engines from the country were secured, one to run the water plant and the other for the electric light plant. The dynamos were injured. The water, being the most necessary, was supplied first, being pumped directly into the mains Tuesday afternoon, but as one of the engines got stuck in the mud on the way to town the electric light service was broken until last night.

The damage to the double plant is estimated at $5,000, about equally divided between the Illinois and Northern Utilities company. Several employees of the company from Dixon and Mendota are assisting Manager Laidlaw in repairing the damage and it is thought that within a very short time everything will be in first class shape.

MAYOR TURNS SALARY INTO STREET LIGHTING

Geneseo Republican: As has been his practice, Mayor J. H. O'Bryan, has again this year donated his salary and an additional sum to be used in placing ornamental cluster lights in the South State street parking. The style of lights to be used will provide for each post a forty candle power lamp to burn all night and four lights of lesser candle power to burn until the usual time when the street is not in general use.

Mr. O'Bryan's public spirit has never been lacking and this city has repeatedly been the recipient of favors at his hands, the fountain on Exchange street, the ornamental cluster lights in the park and the improvements at the North Side school grounds being his previous similar gifts to the community.

For a list of which the public is grateful to His Honor, the Mayor, and holds him in esteem.

DE KALB COMMERCIAL CLUB SECURES CITY NEW LIGHTS

De Kalb Chronicle: The Pettibohn company of Terre Haute, Ind., was awarded the contract for the erection of the cement poles for the new ornamental lighting system by the city council Saturday night, their bid of $755.40 being the lowest of the several which were introduced.

The General Electric company of Chicago secured the contract for the installation of the 64 luminous arc lamps, their price being $2.72.

The contract for the cables and other necessary materials was not let yet, but will be awarded after some additional investigations are made.

PURCHASE ASPHALTIC MIXER FOR PAVING AT MADISON

(Madison Democrat.)
By using an asphaltic mixer to prepare the material for asphalt macadam streets the pavement will be more durable and the surface smoother than under the old system, according to City Engineer Parker.

The purchasing of an asphaltic mixer is now in the hands of a committee and action will be taken either at the adjourned meeting of the council March 25 or at the regular April meeting. The machine costs about $1,700, Mr. Parker said Wednesday.

"CASCARETS" FOR A SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Gently but Thoroughly Cleanse and Regulate Your Stomach, Liver and Bowels While You Sleep.

That awful sourness, belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach; the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, feeling of fullness, dizziness and sick headache, means a disordered stomach, which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a little box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good gentle cleansing, too.

Berlin granite will be used for asphalt macadam streets.

COMPANY WILL INSTALL A CONSUMER OF SMOKE

The trial of Milwaukee's case against the Semat Solvay Coke company to compel the company to install machinery which will do away with smoke nuisance was postponed a week by Judge A. H. Reid of Wausau, when lawyers for the company announced that the company was willing to install such machinery.

It is expected that before the end of week an agreement between the city attorney and the company will be reached and that a dismissal of the case will be requested.

BELVIDERE WILL PURCHASE MOTOR CHEMICAL WAGON

(Belvidere Republican.)

The city council at its meeting on Monday evening voted to include in the annual appropriation ordinance to be adopted the sum of $6,000 for the purchase of a combination hose, chemical and ladder auto wagon. The suggested wagon would carry two chemical tanks, one thousand feet of hose and ladders. The plan would be to dispense with three horses. It was recommended that the speed limit be fixed to not exceed thirty miles an hour, although the truck would be capable of taking a much faster gait. It was figured that the cost of maintenance would be something less than for the wagon replaced.

BUY AUTO TRUCK FOR PARCEL POST

Parcel post packages in La Crosse will be delivered in the future by means of an automobile truck. F. J. Noetzel yesterday closed a deal with Gorge Trenwith, head of the parcel post department at the local post office, for the purchase of a Chase light delivery wagon for the use of the mail service. The truck will be put into service within a few weeks.—La Crosse Tribune.

City Will Build Conduits.

Fire and police alarm service wires will be laid underground on eighty-four streets this year, thoroughfares that are to be permanently paved. The wires will be laid in conduits, the work to be supervised by Oscar D. Kleinsteuber, superintendent of the combined alarm service. Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

To Have Summer Uniforms.

(Aberdeen (S. D.) News.)
Special Order No. 1 to the members of the city fire-fighting force is now posted on the walls of the fire companies. The order states that beginning May 1 a summer uniform will be worn by the members of the fire department. The uniforms will be light weight blue suit, (jacket, shirt and black tie). Chief Kingsley has one on exhibition in his office now.

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By
D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted.)
This week I shall either interest or tire you with a description of the trip which I made last Friday and Saturday to attend a banquet at the La Salle hotel in Chicago, given by the Showmen's League of America. The invitations for the two days read, come early and stay late and I filled the bill. I not only went early but stayed till the last strains of the music died out, which was long after the midnight hour.

On arriving in Chicago I went directly to the La Salle hotel where the automobiles were already lined up to take us on a trip to the South Side Stock Yards, where we were to be the guests of the Swift Packing Company at a banquet at one o'clock. The Swift Company had sent one of their men to the Hotel La Salle to take charge of us and to my surprise he was an old Janesville boy, by the name of Henry Hart. Henry was born and educated in Janesville, but many years ago went to Chicago, and is now one of the head men of the great Swift Packing Company.

Upon starting from the hotel each guest was handed a cane with a crook which we could hang over our arm and with a pennant attached with the initials S. L. A., meaning the Showmen's League of America. A few minutes after ten o'clock we were on Michigan Avenue and well started to the south part of the city. Arriving at the stock yards there were two other officers of the company joined us and with Mr. Hart started out to show us the entire plant from start to finish.

Our first introduction was to what they called the killing room and from there were taken on through all the different departments of the plant, up stairs and down, into elevators and out, and it was well nigh the banquet hour when we finished up in what they called the butterline room.

Early in the start of our trip I heard a voice twenty-five or thirty feet ahead of me in the crowd and although "twas a voice I had not heard for twenty years it came to me in a second and I yelled at the top of my voice, "You, Jasper." Jasper turned around and when he saw me he threw up his hands and said, "Has the resurrection day come?"

Jasper was in the show business, but retired shortly after I commenced in the business many years ago. He was one of a trio of Watson athletes known as the Watson Brothers, who were famous the world over. But one of the Watson brothers died which broke up the act and Jasper went to Chicago and found employment at the Windsor Hotel on Dearborn street, just south of the new Tribune building.

Jasper was honest and faithful in his work and it did not take him long to get to the front with Sam Greggston, who was a high class business man and Jasper after a few years, became manager of the Windsor Hotel for Mr. Greggston. Mr. Greggston's health failed several years ago and he made more than one trip to Europe for the benefit of his health and Jasper became manager of the Windsor Hotel.

Mr. Greggston died some years ago and in his will left Jasper one thousand dollars as a reward for his faithful services. Jasper then went to the Swift Packing Company where he is now holding a responsible position and he told me he had been there between seven and eight years.

On this trip he said to me, "I want to introduce you to the oldest employee in the plant, Mr. P. Holder."

This man was the first man to do killing for the Swift Company and it was nearly forty years ago. He had two assistants and four working men and they managed the first day to kill thirty-two head of cattle which they thought was a big day's work, but now they kill several thousand. Mr. Holder has never been out of Swift & Company's employ since he started with them nearly forty years ago, but his work gives lighter each year. He has a wife and son living at Boston Harbor, Michigan, where they have a nice fruit farm and Mr. Holder leaves Chicago every Saturday and spends Sunday with his family, usually going back to his work sometime Monday.

His work for the most part is overlooking the different departments to see that everything is going right. The old gentleman accompanied me to the banquet and sat to my left and opposite to Colonel Cody and Henry Hart. I introduced him to Col. Cody and they had a long visit and when we left the plant, which was something like two o'clock in the afternoon the old gentleman bade us good-bye and he said, "I assure you this has been one of the bright spots of my life, today."

We left there for the northwest of the city, about fourteen miles to the Selig Film Company's plant which occupies an entire block, and to me this was one of the most wonderful places that I ever visited. In less than one minute after our automobiles had pulled up in front of the plant they took a picture of us arriving at their place and then ushered us into what they called the photographer's room on the second floor and in less than ten minutes we were greeting Col. Cody as he was arriving in Chicago for the banquet at the Northwestern Depot.

We were there some time as they took pictures of us in four different positions and it was well nigh five o'clock before we left the plant. At this place they employ about two hundred and fifty people. They have their own kitchen and dining room, bed rooms and bath rooms for the accommodation of people whom they hold there at times for several days to get their different productions. In the drying room of the plant where they dry the films, they gave us a peek for a few seconds and the manager said that they could dry 500,000 feet of films there at one time.

The next evening at the banquet on the nineteenth floor of the La Salle Hotel, we were given moving pictures and they all wore those taken the night before at this wonderful plant and it was possible for this to all be brought about in twenty-four hours.

After arriving at the La Salle Hotel on Friday evening, we were given a private banquet, nineteen of us with Col. Cody, making twenty in all, and this lasted until about eight o'clock. Then a gentleman from the Court theatre stepped in and said we were to be the guests of the management of the Court theatre to a production of "Our Wives" that evening and we were soon on our way to the theatre. And this ended our first day's visit.

Saturday for the most part was taken up with business meetings of the league and taking in of new members. The object of this meeting was to bring showmen together from all over the United States in an effort to build a club house and a home in Chicago for people who spent their lives entertaining the public and also for a home for showmen who had been less fortunate than their associates in laying by a competency for their old age. To the secretary of the company, who was a former Janesville boy, Warren A. Patrick, whose mother still resides on East street in this city, if it's brought to a successful ending, too much credit cannot be given. And it was through his untiring efforts and a few of his associates that it was possible to bring this banquet about. The officers of the company are: Hon. William P. Cody, "Buffalo Bill" president; Charles Andrews, first vice president; Frank L. Alfred, second vice president; and director of publicity and organization; H. J. Hermann, third vice president and general fraternal conciliator; Col. C. F. Parker, treasurer; Warren E. Patrick, Rhoda Royal, superintendent of paraphernalia.

But the big banquet was to come off Saturday night at seven o'clock and before that there were hundreds gathered there and taken to the eighteenth and nineteenth floors of the hotel. The dressing rooms and the checking rooms were on the eighteenth floor and the banquet hall which is known as the Louis the Sixteenth room, is on the nineteenth floor and occupies the entire frontage of the hotel on Madison street.

At the main entrance of the dining room was an exact reproduction of the main entrance to the Big Show, where just like one of the large circuses. When the banquet was ready the ticket takers were at the door, the barkers were out in front, the man up on a tall stool beckoned and pleaded to the people not to rush—"Take your time. We have seats inside for more than 15,000 people and the last ones in will get as good a seat as the first."

Vaudeville people of the highest quality were engaged for the evening and as soon as we were seated at the table the vaudeville commenced on the stage. Here, all the acrobatic and contortionists' acts were given and down in front of the stage were singers. There were three ladies and one gentleman walking two and two up and down the banquet hall singing and finally commenced to sing, "Strolling Down the Shady Lane" and when two of the ladies got near "Buffalo Bill's" table he dropped his napkin and stepped in between them and marched up and down the hall singing with them.

The banquet, and the vaudeville show lasted till about eleven o'clock and then commenced the speech making. Two or three attorneys who were noted for their after dinner talks were there and gave some interesting stories on shows and show people. Several others were called upon and gave short talks or told stories but the last to be called on and the star of the banquet was William P. Cody, "Buffalo Bill." He talked for some time and told us interesting stories of his life, the pleasures and hardships that he had gone through and of the famous people whom he had known and met the world over and when he got to where he wanted to stop and sit down the crowd wouldn't have it.

They kept him on the floor for more than an hour and a half, telling his experiences and all together it was certainly the most interesting talk I ever have listened to. There were famous men from all over the United States at the banquet. There were telegrams sent from every state in the Union regretting that they could not attend, but in attendance were many men famous the world over among whom were William Pinkerton, the head of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, James J. Brady, one of the foremost theatrical men of the day and one of the largest producers; E. B. Daly, who for many years was in the show business and now is a resident of Chicago; Charles Bell who has been in the business for more than thirty years and many others who were famous in the business for many years, men who have done things in the world and are still doing them.

But I must not tell you with too long a story this time for if I burn all my powder on this hunt I can't go again. I will try and tell you more about it next week. But in closing I want to say that although it stormed almost constantly for two days, they were two days of perpetual sunshine for me.

BRODHEAD

Brodhead, March 21.—The Brodhead Telephone company has given notices to all subscribers that beginning April 1st, a raise in rates will go into effect with all those who do not go onto party lines.

The funeral of Wm. Hall who passed away on Wednesday evening, will take place on Monday.

It Depends.

The Springfield Republican, replying to an inquirer who wants to know if chickens are worth while, says it depends on whether they're yours or the neighbors. That goes for dogs and chickens, too.—Kansas City Times.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

EASY STREET.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

EASY STREET is the home address of people who have money out at 5 per cent and nothing to do but prevent the assessor from finding it. No matter what part of town a man lives in, he figures on eventually landing in Easy Street with some bank stock and a cluster of first farm mortgages. If he is accustomed to a hard work, soon after he moves in he will be attacked by dyspepsia, insomnia and nervous indigestion, and would be willing to trade a few of his bonds for his old two-edged appetite and the ability to sleep from 8 to 6 without engaging several lusty nightmarers in mortal combat.

A great many people have saved and crimped and taken the half cent so long that when they finally get on Easy street they are astonished to find that they can't spend any more than they used to without being overcome with remorse and shooting pains. It is harder to spend money than to save it, after a lifetime devoted to going without breakfast and dining on oatmeal and XXX coffee. Easy Street is full of people who are never so easy as when a sewer extension fails to pass the city council.

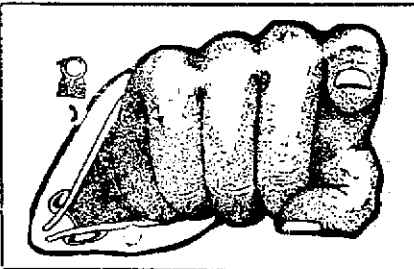

The other class of folks who reside in Easy Street are those who fell into it by the inheritance route. This class usually puts its money into circulation with a shovel, and prevents the automobile industry from breaking in two in the middle with a loud report. Once in a while some hard-working business man, who began life by revolving around the corn field on a riding cultivator, will die unremediatedly and leave what he has piled up to a pampered son, who will move into Easy street and proceed to make his liabilities smother his assets. After conducting a brisk business in this line, until he couldn't buy a sack hammer on tick, the son usually backs into business life by opening a shooting gallery or driving a grocery wagon.

Easy Street is a delightful place, if it doesn't become so blasted easy that a man isn't good for anything except to call for his mail and pitch horseshoes.

The Cause of Rheumatism. Stomach trouble, lazy liver and deranged kidneys are the cause of rheumatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains of rheumatism. Charles B. Allen, a school principal of Sylvania, Ga., who suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys, writes: "All remedies failed until I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Maybe your rheumatic pains come from your stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by People's Drug Store.

Best Known Cough Remedy.
For forty-three years Dr. King's New Discovery has been known throughout the world as the most reliable cough remedy. Over three million bottles were used last year. Isn't this proof? It will get rid of your cough, or we will refund your money. J. J. Owens, of Allendale, S. C., writes the way hundreds of others have done: "After twenty years, I find that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds that I have ever used." For coughs or colds and all throat and lung troubles, it has no equal. 50c and $1.00 at People's Drug Store.

THIS WOMAN HAD MUCH PAIN WHEN STANDING

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made Her a Well Woman.

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—"I have always had great confidence in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I found it very good for organic troubles and recommend it highly. I had displacement, backache and pains when standing on my feet for any length of time, when I began to take the medicine, but I am in fine health now. If I ever have those troubles again I will take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Ed. FERRON, 816 High St., Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin.

Providence, R. I.—"I cannot speak too highly of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it has done wonders for me and I would not be without it. I had organic displacement and bearing down pains and backache and was thoroughly run down when I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped me and I am in the best of health at present. I work in a factory all day long besides doing my housework so you can see what it has done for me. I give you permission to publish my name and I speak of your Vegetable Compound to many of my friends."—Mrs. ABEL L. LAWSON, 129 Lippitt St., Providence, R. I.

Always Dust in Atmosphere.
We owe the blue of the sky to the fine dust in the atmospheric heights, where the air is purest. When the wind sets the dust in motion the blue turns to gray. The smoke of a cigar is blue as it issues from the mouth of the smoker in whitish gray because the particles of the gray smoke have increased in volume by fixing water vapor.

Unalterable as a Rule.
"Does your wife ever change her mind?" "Only on some minor matters," replied Mr. Meekton, after careful thought. "I believe I recall that she once expressed an intention to love, honor and obey, or something like that."

GOOD NEWS

Many Gazette Readers Have Heard of and Have Profited Thereby.
"Good news travels fast," and the thousands of bad back sufferers in Janesville are glad to learn where relief may be found. Many a lame weak and aching back is bad no more, thanks to Doan's Kidney Pills. Our citizens are telling the good news of their experience with this tested remedy. Here is an example worth reading:
Mrs. R. F. Jones, 419 Western Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "My back was so painful that I had to go around all stooped over and sometimes there was weakness through my joints that made it impossible for me to stand. I did not sleep well and it seemed as if a weight was tied to my back. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended, I got a box at the People's Drug Co. and began using them. They cured me and at that time I was pleased to make the fact known by means of a public statement. I take pleasure in confirming all I have previously said regarding Doan's Kidney Pills and add that I value them as highly as ever. I know that this remedy can be relied upon to correct any symptom of kidney trouble." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CHAPTER V. Grand-Old Jack.

THE stunning successes of Jackson at Front Royal and subsequently at Cross Keys and Port Republic, on the Shenandoah, were achieved by a startling series of maneuvers, little understood by the world at the time, save that in a general way they meant that he "held one commander at arm's length while he hammered the other."
"I have seen grand Old Jack rattled, for once," Captain Ellingham wrote his sister from Front Royal. "We were opposite Port Republic and the general, with a part of his staff, had crossed over the bridge into the town when the enemy appeared in force, with the evident design of attacking the town, destroying the bridge over the Shenandoah and thus cutting off our army and getting in our rear. Jackson sent some hurried orders to Tallaferris and Winler for the defense of the bridge, but before these could be executed the advance Federal batteries had opened fire and their cavalry, crossing the South river, had swept into the town and taken position at the southern entrance to the bridge."

"You see, the general had not recrossed the river and so he was completely cut off, and we didn't know it. They do say he met the emergency with the most audacious display of nerve and presence of mind that you ever heard of—actually rode toward the bridge and, rising in his stirrups, called out to the Federal officer commanding the artillery: 'Who ordered you to post that gun there, sir? Bring it over here.' It fooled them long enough to enable Jackson to put spurs to his horse and dash on to the bridge at full gallop."

"Three hasty shots followed him, but they flew harmlessly over his head, and he reached our quarters on the northern bank in safety. And was he rattled? Well, at the moment of the scare I saw young Bob Lee (youngest son of General Lee, you know, who is only fifteen and left the university to join the 'Stonewall' brigade as a private) going down to the bank of the stream to fetch up some water. He had the big camp kettle slung over his shoulder, and I suppose the general in his excitement thought it was a drum, for as he flew past he shouted out to Bob: 'Hi, there, drummer, beat the long roll!'"

"That was a close shave, dear Sis. But I believe—and so do we all—that our 'Stonewall' Jackson lives a charmed life while he has this job of clearing the valley to perform, and nothing can stop him. Do you know what the Yanks call him? The 'ubiquitous Presbyterian.' It seems like a wild dream, as I look back upon what has happened since you and I parted at Richmond. Our great commander, whom we were rather inclined to poke fun at in the beginning and whose recklessness many distrusted a long while after that, has bowed over the Federal commanders as fast as they could be hurled against him—Banks, Fremont, Shields, Milroy, with subordinate like Blenker, Sigel, Steinwehr and other able soldiers defeated and the whole upper valley regained."

"Why, think of it—in three months he—may I say we've—have marched, I suppose, 600 miles, fought four pitched battles and seven minor engagements, to say nothing of the regular daily skirmishes. And we have defeated four armies, captured seven pieces of artillery, 10,000 stand of arms, 4,000 prisoners and any amount of stores, besides fabulous sums (as I hear) of cash money."

"What our adversaries' losses in killed and wounded foot up I don't know, but they could not have been small. Ours were less comparatively, but oh, Gertrude, we have lost our Asbury. He fell in a moment of triumph, and his last words were, 'Virginians, charge!' I am sure his name will always be remembered and honored by the people of Virginia."

"He was not a Presbyterian, like Old Jack, but he was devout and childlike in his religious faith and a regular attendant at the services of the Episcopal church, which was the church of his ancestors. He may have kept himself a bit aloof from the vulgar camp fun or moments of abandonment, though no man was more frank and gay on the march or in bivouac."

"Is it worth these sacrifices? Gertrude, in spite of all our successes I wish this nightmare of civil war were over and well over. But who can tell now when we shall be out of the woods?"

Washington, remembering Bull Run, had nervous prostration whenever "Stonewall" Jackson was reported in action anywhere within a hundred miles of the Potomac. For this reason it is probably historic truth to say that "Stonewall" Jackson saved Richmond to the Confederates in 1862—in the first place by diverting McDowell's army to the valley, in the second place by marching fresh from his own victories in that same valley to join Lee in the seven days' battle around the Confederate capital.

"I am going back home," said Gertrude Ellingham with determination. "I long to see the valley once more, and I can do just as much good at Belle Boyd's as I can here, perhaps more now."

It was not because of the anxious outlook in Richmond, with McClellan's army almost within gunshot. On the contrary, that in itself would have kept her in the threatened Confederate capital had not stronger ties of home duty and sentiment drawn her both ways.

As Gertrude read in northern newspapers the accounts of the desperate fighting and of the suffering of Jackson's troops she exclaimed:

"Let them send the whole population of the north down here if they will, but they can never conquer us! When they have killed off our men we will shed the last drop of our own blood."

Captain Kerchival West of the Union army of southwest Missouri, as he read the account while alternately burning and shivering in the acute stricken camps of the lower Mississippi valley around Corinth, thought in feverish fancy that he could hear Gertrude saying just such words as these. Her fate, as he imagined it, was like his love—an unreasoning, all-consuming passion. He felt himself ominously fortified with the double strength of hope and despair, for love is a flame that feeds upon despair and takes a lurid halo of glory most of all when lavished wildly and in vain.

One sovereign solace he had, that he was wearing the blue and fighting loyally for the old flag in a campaign sufficiently remote from the valley of Virginia. After all, fate had been kind to him, he thought, as he recalled his farewell words with Bob Ellingham, at Charleston—was it ages ago or only a little more than a year back? "All right, Bob. I only hope we never meet in battle, that's all."

And then they both suddenly as they added:

"Who knows?"
Who knew, indeed? What a tangled skein of lives it was, anyway! One thing was certain—he may have been glad he was not fighting in Virginia, and yet his heart was there all the time.

Meanwhile Gertrude's decision to leave Richmond and go home to the valley was put into execution with characteristic impulse. It was a bad time for such a journey. That made no difference about her embarking upon it, but it did lead to some very complicated and roundabout arrangements for the accomplishment of the trip.

Her Confederate war office friends, for reasons essentially their own, decreed that if she went at all it must be by way of Baltimore and Harpers Ferry. For the last named barrier, a Federal pass would be required, this to be procured at Baltimore. And to go to Baltimore, by water, of course. It was necessary to run the Federal blockade.

But this would be comparatively easy under the plan agreed upon, by which Gertrude was to have a traveling companion—a mysterious southern lady who knew the routes intimately and who seemed to be rather closely in touch with the executive departments at Richmond for one who confidently promised to arrange the little matter of Federal passes at Baltimore.

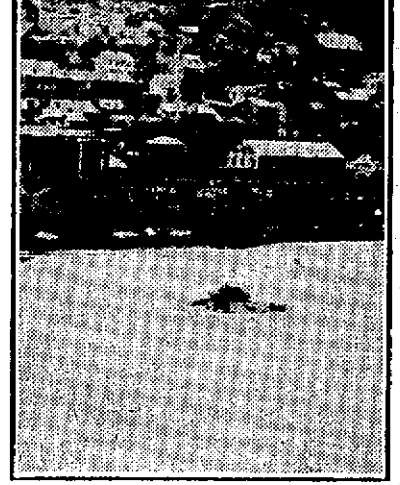

This young person—she seemed not over twenty—was introduced somewhat vaguely as "Mrs. Smith." She was well dressed, fairly good looking and a bright talker, particularly with the men. Her self confidence was perhaps a trifle excessive; but then this would not come amiss for two unprotected females abroad in Dixie in wartime.

On the first stage of the journey overland as they stopped overnight at Petersburg Gertrude said to her fascinating roommate:

"Mrs. Smith, I have told you what little there is of interest about myself and my plans. I do so wish you would tell me something of your own adventures."

"I don't mind, my dear, now that we are off and on our way," laughed the other as she skinned a handkerchief with eau de cologne and washed her face with it. "By the way, my real name is Belle Boyd."

"Belle Boyd of the secret service?"

"Yes, honey child. That's what we are on now."

"But if they should suspect us after we cross the lines they would arrest and detain us, wouldn't they not?"

"They hang spies," Miss Boyd replied. "But I don't reckon they will get us. Of course I won't be Miss Boyd and you won't be Miss Ellingham from now on."

A civilian met "Miss Page and Mrs. Smith" at the light street wharf in Baltimore. He took them to a Federal captain, and the captain sent them to his superior officer, General Fisher. Belle Boyd, now "Mrs. Smith," stated their case.

"We are southerners, general, and we wish to go south by way of Harpers Ferry," she said, handing him a note which the captain had given her.

He read the note, looked at the pair with a quizzical expression and then nodded his head.

"Very well, ladies. I will make out your passes, which will take you to General Kelly at Harpers Ferry. My jurisdiction ends there, but you will find General Kelly a courteous and considerate gentleman. Beyond that I can make no promises for him, you understand. If everything is all right, why—you will be all right. You will have an escort as far as Harpers Ferry, and an officer will be sent this afternoon to your boarding place to examine your baggage."

The baggage searcher found them duly prepared and no obstacle came up to prevent the girls from taking the westward bound train on the Baltimore and Ohio road at noon the next day. Their escort was a flirtatious young lieutenant, whom "Mrs. Smith" newly widow for the occasion engaged in an instructive conversation about Federal military matters, which lasted until toward sunset. The slow train drew up under the shadows of the frowning Virginia heights and heights of Maryland at the historic point where the Shenandoah river breaks through the mountain wall and falls into the Potomac—and they had reached their destination.

Evidently there was a riot going on in the little shut-in town at the end of the long railroad bridge across the Potomac, where the old arsenal and the engine house which had been John Brown's fort lay close upon the railroad tracks, with dwelling houses, barracks and taverns straggling up the hilly streets behind.

They held a consultation in the parlor of a "hotel" full of drunken soldiers and decided to go out and make inquiries of any one who might seem sober enough to answer as to where they could hire a vehicle to forward them on their journey. All uncertainty was promptly dispelled—they could not get out of Harpers Ferry that night.

Meanwhile they had discovered that General Kelly's office adjoined the place where they had been mired, as it were. They sought out the commanding officer, who received them courteously, heard them with wonderful patience—under the circumstances—and on the whole was quite sympathetic. But what could he do?

"I can give you your passes," said he. "But I don't see what you are going to hire to travel in, unless an ox cart or a broken down wagon, and the roads are almost impassable, even for staunch ve-lies. Besides, it is unsafe for you to travel without military escort, and that I have no authority to furnish. If you ladies were prisoners, now, I might send you through our lines under escort all right."

"That may happen to us before we get home," whispered Gertrude faintly, though she felt like crying.

"And this is hardly a fit place for ladies to spend the night in," continued the general, in his role of Job's comfort.

ment for a laundress infamously famous Chicago lawyer once had a singular case to settle. A physician came to him in great distress. Two sisters, living in the same house, had babies of equal age, who so resembled each other that their own mothers were unable to distinguish them when they were together. Now it happened that by the carelessness of the nurse the children had become mixed, and how were the mothers to make sure that they received back their own infants? "But perhaps," said the lawyer, "the children weren't changed at all." "Oh, but there's no doubt that they were changed," said the physician. "Are you sure of it?" "Perfectly." "Well, if that's the case, why don't you change them back? I don't see any difficulty in the case."

Old Lord Foreign, the Scotch judge, died in 1797. Dr. Clark, who attended his lordship to the last, calling on his patient the day he died, was admitted by the judge's old servant and clerk, David Reed, "how does my lord do?" inquired the doctor. "I hope he's well!" responded the old man, whose voice and manner at once explained his meaning. With tears streaming down his face, he conducted Dr. Clark into a room where there were two dozen bottles of wine underneath the table. Other gentlemen presently arrived, and having partaken of a glass or two of wine, while they listened to David's account of his master's last hours, they all rose to depart. "No, no, forethought."

"MOTHERS, YOU SHOULD ALWAYS KEEP IT IN YOUR HOMES"

"How My Boy Was Cured By Using Father John's Medicine."

(By Mrs. Hattie A. Smith)

Mrs. Hattie A. Smith in a recent letter says: "Father John's Medicine ought to be in every home. My poor little boy, seven years old, was sick for ten days with a bad cold and I was much worried over him. He had a very high fever and pains all over him. I had a bottle of Father John's Medicine at one time when I was sick with a cold in my chest and back, and it did me so much good that now I fifty years in use."

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

Consultation, Advice and Booklet Free—No Obligation Whatever.
THE NEAL INSTITUTE
444 CASS ST. Milwaukee, Wis.

NO HYPODERMIC INJECTIONS

The old style "drunk cures" required from four to seven weeks' time away from business, and daily use of the hypodermic needle. The discovery of the NEAL TREATMENT does away with all this loss of time and danger from bad after effects. It is different from all others in these vital points:
FIRST: It is a perfectly harmless vegetable remedy, guaranteed to contain no opium of any kind, strychnine, hyocine, atropine, phosphenine, or any powerful or injurious drug, and danger from bad after effects.
SECOND: It is administered internally, no painful or dangerous hypodermic injections being used; hence no danger of blood poison or infection from careless operation.
THIRD: It requires only a few days to destroy every vestige of addictive desire, craving for alcoholic liquor in any form. The patient is placed in the same physical condition as he was before taking his first drink.

VOX-POPULI VOX-DEAE

SERGEANT CORNWALLIS is a sea soldier. Further, he dances nicely. Mrs. Andromache Reilly hung her strip of denim over the side of the scuttle-frame and held her broom suspended as she considered her daughter. Polyxena looked pompous and neat high collar, nor did she wear her best high-heeled shoes upon the roof at sunrise. But her hair was a tawny knot, rust-brown, her cheeks and lips were glowing, her eyes long-lashed and wide and Irish gray. Youth, health and charm shone in her, and an indescribable alertness. The blood of Syracuse fisherfolk carries the flow of all the islands in its heritage; and in moments of reflection Mrs. Reilly vaguely blessed heaven for a daughter who was not pale.

America, to be sure, was a very fine place, though queer; and Polyxena was good, and clever at helping manage the boarders, and as accomplished in spelling over again this year, not to any office, so now he has to begin paying dues. Also he ceases to be Secretary of the P. O. S. A.; and he had expected that to go on forever paying him ten dollars a year. Thus he has sixteen dollars to belong to in all, and now the office-holding is not enough to pay his way! He is sorrowful this week, poor Andrew. Defeat, truly, he was on the point of joining the Maccabees and a Vincent de Paul. Behold the impossible!

"Pa's the hardest-worked old skeelsicks in Newark, for a man that don't do nothing," pronounced Polyxena, succinctly. "And yet I dunno's I blame you 'n me for supportin' him, he's so nice and ornamental and speechifying. A person can't help admire him. Cornwallis has him down to the recruiting office half his time, so'm to draw folks in. Well, I'll see those newspaper fellas of mine to-day or to-morrow and tell them to steer some more new boarders out our way. We can jam in a few more."

The Reilly breakfast at seven-thirty was a hurried meal, where the flies buzzed and the boarders ate to silence.

"Going to be a roster of a day," said the Sergeant of Marines. "I s'pose they'll order me to Cuba or Guam or Key West just about the time it gets nice and cool here."

"Cheer up!" said Miss Reilly, briefly. "You not being a stock broker, I don't see what call you have to mourn. Those fellas down at the office last week, now—"

"If I had heaps of money you'd marry me in a minute." "Don't let that worry you, ducky. I'm not even thinkin' of rings an' White-Iron-Polly, for six months yet; I've got till I'm nineteen."

"I wish," said the sergeant, biting wistfully on a toothpick, and glancing at his companion aside, "the Government would up and buy those three cash battle-ship models that the newspapers talk about. If our people don't somebody else will. Venezuela'll never need 'em now, and the yards will naturally want 'em out of the way. The bigger navy there is to bob round under the Stars and Stripes, the better chance there is for luck to strike the marines for a raise."

"If you're going to have the blues—"

"You won't throw me over at the place, will you, Polly? You really will marry me? You said you would. I wouldn't wonder if my examination number put me pretty well in line for the wardrobe already. How'd you like to be Mrs. Lieutenant, say? Merit-from-the-ranks puts you even with any snobs in the service, whether they like it or not."

They two came out of the dining room into the obscurity of the hall. Methodically, the man in uniform opened the street door to give his companion light enough on the mirror for the adjustment of her hat. With the change from dusk to sunlight they were startled to see a man on the stairs looking down at them. He was pale, dark-haired, tall and spare almost to emaciation. His expression at this moment baffled the sergeant.

"Coming down, Eddie?" chirped Polyxena Reilly, spiking a hatpin home and stuffing a puff of two. "You ain't too busy to walk down as far as Broad Street with us, are you?"

"Thanks," said the pale youth. "I promised Prince I'd write a six-verse song by two o'clock. It's my maiden effort and I think it'll be hard work."

The pale young man proceeded upward, dragging his feet wearily. Polyxena joined her escort on the sidewalk. Upon arriving in her corner of the wide, shady hotel lobby, Miss Reilly uncovered her typewriter, adjusted snowy paper cuffs over her sleeves, laid tablet and pencil by ready for dictation, and turned to the morning papers. She was an inveterate newspaper reader; in fact, few items in the crowded pages of a New York daily lacked some sort of correlation with other news of yesterday, last week, last year, which she had stored away in memory.

As usual, business dwindled toward noon, and Polyxena had time for another newspaper. Both her dailies, she observed, had little information and much conjecture about the three ownerless battleships lying in the Clyde. A congressman from California had introduced a bill appropriating fifteen million dollars of the current deficit to purchase them for the United States. The Kaiser intended to buy them for his personal account at cut rates. Nobody knew why the British Admiralty hadn't bought them, unless the Japanese Alliance pulled a secret string.

While she was reading the last of these dispatches, Mr. Thomas Applewhite came and stood behind her typewriter, looking down at her quizzically as he fanned himself with his straw hat.

"Halloo," Miss Reilly greeted him. She flipped the Newark daily scornfully with a neat dagger. "You've fell down on your Persimmon, Tommy, something pitiful. Is it the heat? You'd better get friends with a telephone queen again like old times, so's you will have some facts."

"Not guilty as charged, my child. I'm spending my whole time on the Railway murder mystery. You'd recognize my flowery style if you had a gleam of literary instinct. But I know you haven't. Got any pearls of fact for me to throw before the Associated Press to-day?"

"Only the mayor won't lead the Chau-na-Gael parade on Labor Day. Pa told me."

"Um—um. I'll bear looking into, anyway; I'm reduced to the endless chain of prayer post cards for to-day's dispatch. 'Town's dodged with 'em; have you seen the thing? Fine idea, that, about referring you to the directory. Gives it a practical sound.' He took a closely written postcard from his pocket and handed it to the girl.

You are solemnly requested to repeat this prayer for our city three times a day for nine days; and to send five copies assigned to five persons whose names appear in letter A of the Newark Directory.

Bless, O Lord, the rich, the helpless, and the aged in our midst. Save them from pain, from neglect, from hunger, and loneliness, from fever and pestilence, and from the despair of their own hearts. For Thy Son's sake. Amen.

After repeating this upon the ninth day, seal your petition by a gift of money, ten cents upward, to some hospital or public charity of Newark. You may then expect some great good to yourself.

"I s'pose they sent 'em out different letters in the first place?"

"The reporter nodded.

"Well, I bet they get their money."

Four weeks or so thereafter, Mr. Applewhite came into the Vernon House lobby with a clipping which he laid before the stenographer. Polyxena read it, nodding gravely.

"From Indianapolis," she said.

"Yes. Great popular enthusiasm. Post card chain reveals the nation and for the Spot Cash Battleships Purchase! In fact, I've even come in on it myself, just to follow the fashion. Sent twenty cents in stamps to the Navy Department this morning. Great waste of postage, considering that I'm perfectly sure they've no legal right to accept subscriptions from the public."

"Haven't they?" Miss Reilly looked annoyed. "I sent a bunch of cards out myself last week; they ask you not to break the chain, of course, so I wasted some spontaneities on postals at the substation. What'll be done about the twenty-centures, then?"

"That remains to be seen. I guess we'll read the Attorney General's opinion in the Washington dispatches presently. I signed my name and address, just for experiment; I may get a paragraph out of it. See here, you type my five cards for the endless chain, will you? They're addressed to fellows who know my handwriting pretty well, and my patriotism bids me remain anonymous."

"I can as well as not," nodded the typist. "You going to make a few notices out of it?"

"The truly thrifty man wastes nothing. Of course. It's excellent news. I shall say the General Post Office and the Navy Department are overrun with Battleship Purchase correspondence. Then if they send my ten two-cent stamps back to me, I shall make a dollar out of that, too. I shall say the Post Office and Navy Departments are doubly overworked returning the funds to the nation."

Late autumn and winter drew along, and the changing seasonal chrysalis of womenfolk lengthened and tightened and narrowed and plucked, pinched more extravagantly than at any time these ninety years past. The feminine world grew lats, and from head to foot arrayed itself in greens, grays, smoke, puce, catw-ba. But Miss Polyxena Reilly wore small headgear and white skirtwaists and a plucked black volleskirt. She had seemingly abandoned up-to-date-

by CASPER DAY

Or—now don't fly up at me—is Papa Reilly costing you a lot more than usual for his lodges? Because even a man can see you still wear—clothes. You—er—haven't gone in for this res angustas business. All the other women are got up in short-pattern remnants of dry goods. While you—you don't look chilly, my dear child; I'm almost worried about this attack of hygienic raiment. If the boarding house business is going wrong, may I offer a temporary loan?"

But at this delicate suggestion Miss Polyxena Reilly leaned back and laughed so heartily that the young man's concern changed to the mere perplexing sense that somebody was playing a deep game.

"I'll tell you if you won't print it," the girl said. "Much obliged, I'm sure, but it's nothing serious. I haven't bought a single article that's fashionable this winter. I know. Business seems good right along. I've had plenty of cash, but I've spent it. On the Post-Card Battleships! Bayin' cards, I mean. I'm— I'm the whole thing, the whole great national what-you-call-um. I thought our folks might as well have those there three ships as any other country, so I set her going myself."

Edward Epaphroditus Ransom was hurrying down the nearest aisle of a five-cent theatre, the nickel buttons on his uniform gleaming jerkily, his eyes wide under some emotion, his lean, long shoulders stiffly set.

"Glad to see you," he said. "Mr. Applewhite, here's your tickets. It's a full house—that is to say, I don't know whether it is or not. I'm rattled. I wish you'd take care of my money till the performance is over, you and Polly; I'm not used to it, and I feel as if I'd have my pockets picked. Keep it, will you?" He handed out some crumpled bills with yellow backs. "Scureman—the Scureman—was over this afternoon. From New York. To—make a contract for my—songs. He's had 'Truthful Jane' copyrighted. He's—oh, he—d'd have got down to the house in time to see you, only I was kept up there dickerin' with the old man till past supper time! I'm a regular baby over it; I've been out of luck so long."

Applewhite dropped his open paper to shake the usher's hand. Polyxena Reilly seized the other wrist, money and all.

"Why, it's a hundred dollars!" she cried. "Oh, Eddie, Eddie, I'm so glad! Did you take a contract with Scureman? A signed contract?"

"Of course. I get a royalty, and the new one can't be sung except in his circuit for six months. Reusch has the same terms. Oh, I tell you, that classical waltz tune sounds great with the whole orchestra. But there's something else. See this."

He held out a fat, white envelope. "Official Business, Newark Post Office. It's that letter carrier job. After I've waited a year and a half for it!"

"Good for Civil Service! You'll take it, of course?" "I'm not sure," replied the usher. He unbuttoned his showy tunic at the top to extract another envelope from his armpit; and with the motion revealed his tattered gingham shirt. "This looks better to me. Eleven hundred a year. (Though I suppose living is pretty high in Washington. General Post Office: With temporary assignment to Navy Department, Bureau of—um—um—Appointment permanent—next on lists by competitive examination. That's three times I've been struck by lightning to-night!"

"When do these jobs begin?" Miss Reilly inquired. "Both of 'em right away. It's up to you to choose, dear, Polly, will you have one of 'em—one of these jobs, and me? It's queer to ask you in a rush this way, but I have to do it. Can you? Newark or Washington, just as you say. That is, I hope you'll say. Think it over and see if you can put up with me, will you, girl?"

"Oh, you wouldn't be so bad to get along with."

Standing erect in his place, Thomas Applewhite glared down at her.

"For a thousand-dollar clerkship!" he ejaculated. "Three $5,000,000 ships—President, Congress, Cabinet—nation gone wild—all the papers fooled—all the knowing ones prophesying and pulling their wires and yelling like tom cats on a fence! And all the while, a kid of a girl, with a Graeco-Roman mother and a Fraternal-Irish pa and a typewriter, invests the price of her new suit and hat and calls it 'good business.' Oh, woman, woman! Just an ordinary love affair at the bottom of the whole ragging stew! Oh, oh! you impudent rectangular parallelopipedon, you Polly!"

He stopped, groping for his hat.

"I'm no such thing!" Miss Reilly whispered hotly in the darkness. "You know very good I never held with trances an' spirits an' absent treatment! You needn't go miscalculating me just because you're grouchy and jealous. I was born an' raised as good a Catholic as most folks; an' you know it. You can take your heathen names somewhere else, that's all. Eddie'll see me home. Good night to you!"

smiled the lady. "I've often thought you might ask me, Eddie, too."

"Then which is it? Newark is a lower salary. But, of course, that might come to the same thing as Washington, counting board. So—"

"We won't board," Polyxena pronounced, with all her usual decision.

Miss Reilly's escort here recovered from his stupefaction sufficiently to take part in the conversation.

"Do I understand, usher, that you are proposing for the heart and hand of this young lady right under my nose?"

"First offense," grinned Eddie, going faintly brick-red. "Yes, I did it."

"First? That's not to your credit. You botch it awfully. You're a libel on American wooings."

"Oh, art for art's sake can go dry up! Sue took me! You heard her."

"I heard her. But that's neither here nor there. You appear to be one of these trustful people. What about the boss plumber, and me, and the freight conductor on the East C, and Sergeant Cornwallis, and some others? You are only one of an arithmetical series, usher. Don't take it too hard; smile and pass on."

"All you boys were just my re—re—what's the thingumies generals keeps to call on when the main army gets it in the neck?"

"Reserves?"

"—my reserves. Not a one of you was the real thing, and I told you so lots of times. You can't say I didn't. But Eddie was it. And the reserves is excused from here on."

"You see how I stand with the judge," Ransom commented. "There go the fiddles now; you'd better get your seats before the curtain."

"Can the ah—reserves—sit out the performance with Miss Reilly? Or is it up to me to clear out?"

"Oh, come along," said Polly, starting down the aisle. "Eddie's busy quite a while yet. And I want to make sure you write down the best verses of Eddie's new piece to print in your paper, and advertise the song. I know it by heart. You might say

"If I had Heaps of Money You'd Marry Me in a Minute," said the Sergeant."

Scureman's bought it, too, if you want to, and what a promising young author Mr. Ransom is getting to be—'cause he'll have plenty of time in Washington to write more."

"My dear child! I begin to fear you wheedle press notices out of me at times for your own private schemes and devilments. Have I been useful, Polly?"

"Why shouldn't you be?" The girl's wide Irish eyes met his, gray and innocent and merry. "The other newspaper fellas have, too. And it was good enough news, all this post-card graft. Besides, I've often done you boys a favor, haven't I?"

"So you want this puff to-morrow for Ransom? Oh, Wire Puller! Press Agent! Where is this downswamp road of mine to end?"

"It'll end about Wednesday. I should expect, if Ed telegraphs his answer to-night. There won't be any florist, nor caterer, nor troosoe to wait for. It won't take me long to pack up, and I've spent my bottom dollar already, so I won't be tempted to buy any glad clothes to be married in. You can come to the wedding, though. I'll telephone you what time. You see, things'll be pretty hurried; I won't risk Eddie's choosing a flat without me there, you can bet on that! Men never know about cupboards."

Standing erect in his place, Thomas Applewhite glared down at her.

"For a thousand-dollar clerkship!" he ejaculated. "Three $5,000,000 ships—President, Congress, Cabinet—nation gone wild—all the papers fooled—all the knowing ones prophesying and pulling their wires and yelling like tom cats on a fence! "Not Guilty as Charged, My Child."

English as she was ungrammatical in chattering Syracusean Greek.

"You was 'up-to-dett' always," she conceded, in answer to her daughter's remark. "By so reason you owes all young mens for being same 'up-to-dett' as you. All right, yes, yes! But you gotta marry to one, pretty soon after, or you will lose your Uncle Axel's six suader dollars."

"It's only September first to-day, and I ain't nineteen. All the eighth of March. A funny old Dutch idea, too. I don't see any more'n I did two years ago, why he thought I'd ought to get married by nineteen years. However, 'course I will."

"He was only your pa's first woman's brother. No people of yourn was he. You could knock me down with feathers. I was so surprised for him to come such visit to your pa, that one while. But he was short of folks. 'Also growing a old one fast. Was all right, anyhow; we give him good time. One boarder talked his German, too."

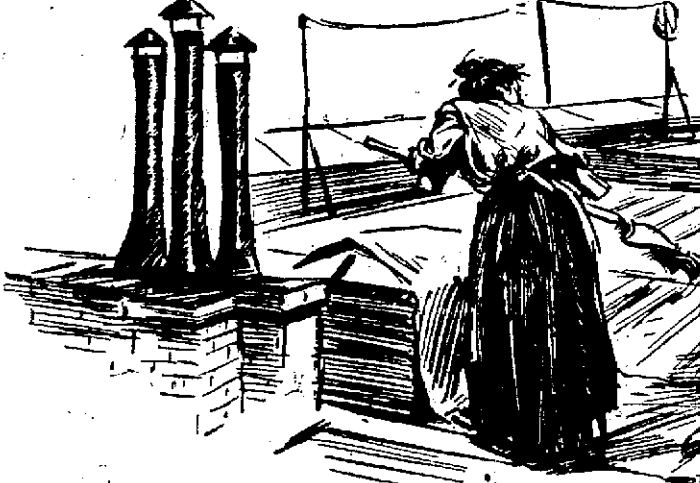

"Uncle Axel Uffichter wasn't no head at English, sure; and pa's lodges is the only things you can get pa to raise a hand for, so he wasn't no company for old Axel. But it was him took me off the cigarettes and jolted the German telephone man into givin' me a switchboard. I'm much obliged to him for that, if he hadn't left me a red cent."

Day was brightening perceptibly; a whistle blew somewhere in the city. Mrs. Reilly looked over the faded and graveled roots, the chimney pots and wooden tenements, the junk yards, the factories huge in dingy brick, the yellow marshes, and Newark Bay just glimmering under the far blue of haze.

"Comes seven o'clock; I gotta hurry breakfasts," she announced, playing her broom vigorously. Sweeping strip for strip, she and Polly finished the pile of floor coverings. As usual when she was actively at work, the mother dropped into her island dialect. "Your sailor-man-soldier Cornwallis wants much sausage for breakfast. The plumber, 'also the three actor gentlemen, eat it as if it were grapes or apples! And there is Luckless Eddie—eh. I would rather feed sausage to Eddie than to the fine big sergeant, I! In poor Eddie I fear there is often cupinness after breakfast to breakfast again. This is a bad year; and he is the last man to get him a job in bad years. Cornwallis pays me four times as much, but Eddie pays whenever he can. An usher of the radeville gets little wages. Yet I like Eddie Luckless best."

"Edward Epaphroditus Ransom is our really sweetest boarder, if you want to know it," said the girl. "Seems one of his folks that he's named for was a gouv'ner, away back; rich old fella, and is politics. Eddie's folks is well to do, only his father. They're high swells out in Wisconsin an' them places West. His father invented, and that don't pay gen'rally. Eddie's awful fine on education, if he is only a 'non-union electrician out of a job. I'll stand up for him, I tell you! But I guess you only like him 'cause he answers to a Greek name."

"Dinner he will not take here any more, and sometimes not supper. He says he gets it downtown. I don't know. 'We ourselves, alas! must squeeze out another fifty dollars for your father. Poor soul, he has had bad luck with his lodges again! The Liddler Cranks have turned him out of being janitor, which was a paying one; and Fourteenth Ward Democrats ask him for money after being a free society five years; and Red Men are taxing their people for paint and Ancient Liberalism do not elect your pa
